FUEHRER WARNS BRITAIN TO STOP TRYING TO BOSS

SAARBRUECKEN, Germany, Oct. 9.—Efforts of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain to please Reichsfuehrer Hitler and win his allegiance have proved unsuccessful. This conclusion was reached today from a speech Hitler delivered to 150,000 cheering Germans at Saarbruecken, a few miles from the French border.

Ten days after the four-power Munich conference in which Chamberlain stood by Hitler in his determination to incorporate Sudetenland into the German empire, the Fuehrer denounced the English "governess-like bossing which Germany cannot tolerate."

Hitler also equipped himself with more bartering material for a possible disarmament conference by announcing the creation of new fortifications in the districts of Aachen [Aix la Chapelle] and Saarbruecken and "the development of Germany's existing western fortifications with increased energy."

Saar Victory Recalled.

Aachen is near the junction of the German, Netherlands, and Belgian frontiers. Saarbruecken is on the border of France. Hitler won the Saarland from France by plebiscite on Jan. 13, 1935.

The Fuehrer delivered his fighting speech at a demonstration on Liberty field following the dedication of the Saarland People's theater. The theater is Hitler's gift to the Saar population in recognition of loyalty to Germany.

In the course of his address Hitler announced the demobilization of army reserves "and the return home of hundreds of thousands of men." The reserves were called to the colors just before the European crisis.

British Anger Hitler.

The Fuehrer has been angered by the efforts of the British to obtain pledges and guarantees for the treatment of minority groups in the newly conquered territories of pan-Germany.

He assailed "inquiries of British statesmen and members of parliament about developments within Germany." He told England and the rest of the world to pay more attention to the "international developments such as those in Palestine."

"We advise the gentlemen to concentrate more on the settlement of their own problems and to leave us alone," he cried.

Attacks British Leaders.

Hitler referred to Alfred Duff Cooper, former British first lord of the admiralty, Capt. Anthony Eden, former foreign secretary, and Winston Churchill, member of parliament, as "men whose aim it is to make war."

[Duff Cooper resigned his post Oct. 1 and Eden quit Feb. 20, both in disagreement with Chamberlain's foreign policy. Churchill, former British cabinet minister, is an outspoken Conservative member of the house of commons who has criticized Chamberlain.]

"We must, therefore, be prepared for defense," Hitler said. "I have, consequently, decided to continue to build up our fortifications with increased intensity.

Says None Can Break Wall.

"You yourselves are witnesses of this gigantic work [the fortifications] which is being carried out in your vicinity. I will tell you one thing—no power on earth can get through this wall."

Hitler expressed his gratitude to Premier Mussolini of Italy for his cooperation in the "reincorporation of 10,000,000 Germans and 42,000 square miles of land into Germany." He called Il Duce "the only true friend Germany has today."

"I know and you know how much we owe to this man," he said. "I would also like to mention the other two statesmen [Chamberlain and Premier Daladier of France] who attempted to find a way toward peace and who together with the great Italian and us signed the agreement

YANKEES DEFEAT CUBS, 8 TO 3, FOR SERIES SWEEP

The Yankees defeated the Cubs, 8 to 3, yesterday for a clean sweep of the four game world series. It was New York's third consecutive world championship, an all time record. Since 1927 the Yankees have played twenty-seven games in six world series and have lost only three. Since 1929 the Cubs have been in four world series and have lost sixteen of nineteen series games.

Total attendance at the series was 200,833, and total receipts were $841,166. The Yankees received $5,815.28 and the Cubs $4,674.87 each as their shares of the winners and losers' ends of the players' pool. The players' shares set a new record for a four game series.

NAZI THRONGS AGAIN MENACE VIENNA PRELATE

Marchers Raise Din During Services.

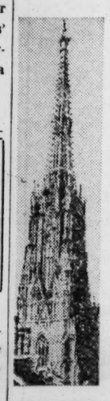
VIENNA, Oct. 9.—(AP)—A milling throng tonight packed St. Stephen's square, where the Nazis last night rioted and stoned the palace of Cardinal Theodore Innitzer, the 62 year old archbishop of Vienna, injuring him and a canon.



St. Stephen's Cathedral spire.

Boys and girls of the Hitler Youth movement marched past St. Stephen's cathedral repeatedly, beating drums while evening services were being conducted.

Later they sang war songs and shouted in chorus:

"Where does Innitzer belong? Dachau."

Dachau is a concentration camp.

The Vienna propaganda ministry denied reports that the cardinal was in custody either "protectively" or in any other form. Secret police guarded the partially wrecked archepiscopal palace, preventing entry or exit.

Cardinal Celebrates Mass.

Detectives were said to have been attached to the cardinal for his protection. He was advised for his own sake not to leave the residence, but in the morning he celebrated mass at a side altar in the cathedral.

Contingents of police and storm troopers in black uniforms kept the crowd under control in St. Stephen's square and directed vehicular traffic into side streets.

The police protected the cathedral doors against assault by the boys and girls, then directed them to march through Kaerntnerstrasse, one of Vienna's principal streets, leading off St. Stephen's square.

As the youths moved down the street, yelling wildly, many of the crowd followed. At 9:30 p. m. the square was a seething mass of people, but there was no repetition of yesterday's mob action and the square was emptied without further incident.

Worshipers Are Admonished.

Worshipers in the cathedral were exhorted by the officiating priest to keep discipline. He warned them not to permit themselves to be provoked on the way home and they left in good order.

The Cardinal suffered a forehead wound from a piece of flying glass last night as he knelt in his private chapel. The physical damage was disclosed today to be greater than believed at first.

While one part of the mob attacked the palace, another stormed the residence of the canons at the other end of St. Stephen's place. One group of six men invaded the second floor apartment of Canon Johann Krawanik, who is 50 years old, dragged him through the corridor, and threw him from a window, it was reported.

A Consequence of Sermon.

Canons reported gold and silver treasures of Cardinal Innitzer's residence were stolen and other precious objects either were taken or ruined. One church source said the valuable library was in "sad condition" and the church museum was wrecked.

The Nazi attack apparently came in retaliation for a demonstration Friday night involving Catholic youths who heard the cardinal preach a stirring sermon.

It was estimated unofficially that twenty persons were arrested, but most of them were believed to have been released.

(See Editorial on Page 12.)

Ex-Sailor Finds Port in Storm; Nobody Home

Andrew Berg is by nature a quiet, almost timorous man. He used to be a sailor, and still has a brilliant ship sailing across his chest, but he prefers his present job as janitor.

For as janitor, Andrew says, he has a home which never roams, and Andrew is a home-loving man.

Andrew is 52, but few would suspect it. He is short, stocky and smilingly blond and looks the picture of youthful health as he rolls about on his sealegs, sweeping the hallways at 6033-25 North avenue, Oak Park.

Things Start to Happen.

Ordinarily as Andrew wanders about on his daily round, he drops in occasionally on his own home to see that it and his wife, Johanna, who is 49, are still there. Once a sailor, you can never be sure. But Saturday he did not. He became too engrossed in trying to paint the garage and, defying barroom etiquet, wash down a half gallon of beer with a pint of whisky.

When finally he did drop in, the stairs kept twining around his legs and the ship on his hairy, paint-splashed chest was rocking as in a gale. That was one reason why he could not believe his eyes when he found the apartment as bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard. Johanna was gone. So was the furniture.

Terrified, Angry, Convinced.

Andrew was terrified. Andrew was angry. Andrew was convinced that Johanna had been kidnaped. He would arouse, he told himself, the neighbors, the police, the G-men.

He grabbed two chairs from the basement and began to swing them. Four swings were directed at a neighbor's window, the fifth at a store front. And each worked, for just as he started on his sixth three police squads and a fire engine arrived.

The police nodded gravely at Andrew's dilemma. They sensed that despite the ship on his chest he was a home-loving man. So, they assured him, were they.

Thus they took pains, when he was released on bond yesterday after a night in jail, to escort him inside his own front door—and not into the vacant apartment across the way, where he had found his Johanna missing.

TWO GIRAFFES START OUT TODAY TO VIEW U. S. FROM A TRUCK

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—The first two giraffes ever to cross the continent by truck will leave the federal animal quarantine at Athenia, N. J., tomorrow for the zoo in San Diego, Cal.

These will be the first giraffes ever to show their long necks in a southern California zoo. They will be in charge of Charles Smith, the zoo's head keeper, and Eddie Suess, his helper and zoo truck driver.

They will travel the southern route, as Smith has been over it twice and is sure there are no overheads to stop him.

"I need 12 feet 8 inches clearance," he says, "and, if need be, I can let some air out of the tires."

The giraffes, a male and a female, from Kenya colony in British East Africa, are about 4 years old and stand 10 feet tall.

COP TREED BY CAT LOSES PIPE, PANTS, TOOTH, DIGNITY

In Thome avenue near Paulina street is a tall tree. From it, for some nights, came a series of ear piercing cries. The noise was so irritating that residents nearby called their alderman and demanded that he get the blasted cat out of there.

When the alderman suggested that the Summerdale police act, Lieut. Axel Jensen led three men to the scene and ordered them to advance on the unwanted musician. But the underlings demurred. Thereupon Lieut. Jensen forgot his dignity and his 57 years and climbed up himself. He got the cat.

His descent was not so successful. His pipe fell out of his pocket and was cracked. One of his teeth dropped to the ground. His pants ripped with a sound like the cat's last yell. That was about all, except that the cat got away.

Parachute Jumper Loses Life in Leap for $8 Prize

Augusta, Ga., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Johnny Spoon, 22 years old, a professional parachute jumper of Lansdowne, Pa., fell 2,200 feet to his death late today in a delayed jump for which he would have received a purse of $8.

Tablet Honors Casey Jones as Railroad Hero

Cayce, Ky., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Almost forty years after Casey Jones drove the Cannon Ball Express through three freight cars near Vaughn, Miss., a monument to the storied engineer was dedicated today at this town from which Casey received his nickname.

Arrow marks Casey Jones' home town.

Two thousand persons witnessed the unveiling of a marker to the memory of the man who died in the crash and who told his colored fireman, "Jump, Sim, jump; there's two locomotives a-goin' to bump."

Sim Webb, that fireman, stood before the marker today in tears.

Scene of Boyhood.

John Luther Jones, who as a boy 50 years ago romped over the fields of this southwestern Kentucky hamlet, became Casey Jones in a railroad boarding house in Jackson, Tenn.

On the simple stone marker is a brass plate that pictures the famous Cannon Ball driven by the ace engineer of the Illinois Central system when he met death on April 30, 1900.

Not Casey's Fault.

Sim told the assemblage at the dedication today how the locomotive ploughed through a freight train caboose, two carloads of grain and stopped in a carload of lumber. "It wasn't Casey's fault, though," Sim explained.

Although Casey died, the passengers in the 12 cars behind him were saved.

Casey's widow and two granddaughters unveiled the marker.

Has Silliest Dream, Yet It All Turns Out to Be Real

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—James Robinson, 35 years old, had the silliest dream. He dreamed he was asleep in a drug store telephone booth He dreamed he was putting a nickel in the slot. He dreamed he was shouting, "Police!" Sure enough, police arrived—with sirens. They broke in the door and found Robinson still in the telephone booth. He had been there six hours—ever since the place closed at 1 a. m.

Warn Flyers of Mountains by New Device

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—A new device has been perfected which will tell airplane pilots accurately how high they are above the ground. It will give warning of mountains and put an end to one of the most feared causes of air transport disasters.

The altimeters now in use tell the pilot how high he is above sea level, but they give no indication of the mountains beneath him. Therefore, in flying blind, if he miscalculates his position in a mountain country, he is in danger of a crash.

United Air Lines and the Western Electric company today announced the invention of the new device described as an absolute altimeter, or a terrain clearance indicator. It operates by shooting a stream of radio impulses earthward. These rebound to the plane and a delicate electrical device measures the infinitesimal time it takes the signal to make the round trip.

Tests Show Its Accuracy.

Using the speed of electricity and light—186,000 miles a second—the altimeter divides that figure by the time required for the signal's round trip and shows on a dial the plane's exact height above the ground in feet.

Tests have shown the new altimeter to be so accurate that flight over a rowboat floating on a large body of water causes the needle to respond. The needle likewise shows the height of buildings.

The device was tested by a United Airlines pilot yesterday in a flight up the Hudson and over the New Jersey Palisades. In going over the Palisades the needle of the new indicator fluctuated all the way from 300 to 450 feet, while the old sea level altimeter remained steadily at 875 feet. This, the pilot said, gave absolute protection against crashes in soupy weather.

A Blind Landing Guide.

The most impressive test came in landing when the new altimeter registered to within five feet of the field. This showed the value of the invention in blind landings.

In blind flying with the air pressure type of altimeter now in use, the pilot was reasonably safe when flying on his course. The ground was charted carefully and exact elevation of all hills and mountains was noted on his map. If on his course it was only necessary to fly high enough to have sufficient clearance.

Recent accidents in the Rocky mountains and California usually have been the result of the pilot being off his course many miles, driven there by bad weather. Under such conditions the worst disasters in air history have occurred.

The altimeter was an original development of the Bell Telephone laboratories. It was perfected by United Air Lines. The altimeter, according to W. A. Patterson, president of the air line, is regarded as one of the outstanding technical advancements in the history of aviation.

DEMOCRATS SET TO PUT U.S. RATE AT $20 MONTHLY

Plan to Lower Age Limit to 60.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Again the Roosevelt administration is yielding to the politically irresistible attraction of "a magnet to the left." Steps are being taken to head off the epidemic of wild old age pension schemes by liberalizing the social security act.

With the $30 every Thursday scrip pension scheme rampant in California, birthplace of the Townsend $200 a month plan, and Townsendism itself spreading like a prairie fire, even in conservative New England, the administration is getting ready to make life more abundant for the old people.

Agree on Amendment.

Proposals to amend the social security act have been agreed upon in secret conferences between members of the house ways and means committee and officials of the social security board. Among those who have participated in the conferences are Representative Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.], chairman of the ways and means committee; Representative John J. Dingell [D., Mich.], and Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the social security board.

Arrangements have been made, it is said, for Mr. Dingell to introduce a bill and for the ways and means committee to give it the right of way when congress convenes in January.

Proposed Changes.

Although no tentative bill has been drafted, the changes agreed upon by the administration leaders will provide:

1. An increase of the government's contribution for old age assistance from $15 to $20 a month, thus raising the pension from $30 to $40 a month where states match the full federal allowance.

2. Dropping the minimum age requirement for old age assistance from 65 to 60 years, thereby extending the pensions to hundreds of thousands of persons not now eligible.

3. Raising the government's contribution for dependent children from one-third to one-half the cost, thus dividing equally the state and federal share of the burden.

May Double Costs.

These changes would bring enormous increases in the cost of the social security program. Under present law, the federal government paid out a total of 351 million dollars in grants for old age assistance alone from the passage of the act in 1935 to July 31, 1938. If the federal contribution should be raised from $15 to $20 a month and the age limit should be lowered to 60 years, the cost might be doubled.

The administration has committed itself to the higher pensions, however, because of the political danger from more fantastic schemes. President Roosevelt denounced as an unsound shortcut to Utopia the $30 every Thursday plan in California, but its chief apostle, Sheridan Downey, defeated Senator William G. McAdoo, a yes man, for the Democratic nomination. Mr. McAdoo did not profit by the example of Senator Claude Pepper of Florida, another yes man, who openly espoused the Townsend plan and won an easy victory over his anti-Roosevelt opponent.

Townsend Plan a Spur.

In moving to boost the federal old age pension payments, the Roosevelt administration has two notable precedents for compromising with radicalism. It was the political threat of the original Townsend plan which produced the administration's social security act. When the late Senator Huey Long of Louisiana became something of a political menace with his proposal to "share our wealth" and make "every man a king," President Roosevelt's answer, designed to steal Long's thunder, was the soak the rich tax bill of 1935.

The radicals of the Roosevelt administration, always eager for something to pull the President more and more to the left, are delighted with the growth of old age pension movements. They lamented the passing of Huey Long and for the same reason jubilantly acclaimed the formation of the national Progressive party by the radical La Follettes of Wisconsin.

William O. Douglas, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission expressed to his intimates the attitude of the left wingers when the La Follette third party was organized. "That's fine,' he said. "Since the death of Huey Long we have not had a magnet to the left."

Any effort to revise the old age pension program is certain to result in a congressional battle over the whole social security act. Republicans and conservative Democrats will seize upon the opportunity to put over amendments, long advocated, to abolish the mythical old age reserve account.

Such amendments would put the old age annuity provision of the social security act on a pay as you go basis. Under existing law, a theoretical reserve fund is accumulated and would reach a maximum of 47 billion dollars in 1980. Actually, however, the reserve fund consists of government I O. U.'s. The government spends the pay roll taxes on employers and employés as fast as they are collected, substituting government bonds for the cash.

The administration is opposed to any tampering with the old age reserve system, since it provides a convenient source of deficit financing.

SENATOR GLASS GETS ROOSEVELT (NOT F. D.) MEDAL

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Senator Carter Glass [D., Va.] and Robert Moses, New York City park commissioner, will receive the Roosevelt medals for 1938 from the Roosevelt Memorial association, James R. Garfield, its president, announced tonight.

The medals will be presented at a banquet Oct. 27, the eightieth anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt's birth. The awards, established in 1923, are given annually for prominent public service in fields associated with the career of Theodore Roosevelt, such as administration of public office, conservation of natural resources, national defense, and industrial peace.

Citations accompanying the medals praise both Glass and Moses for "distinguished service in the administration of public office."

CANDIDATES SET FOR FINAL DRIVE; TWO WEEKS TO GO

Both Republican and Democratic nominees for state offices will be criss-crossing Illinois again this week as they open the final fortnight of their downstate campaigning.

The Republicans, headed by Richard J. Lyons, nominee for United States senator, will continue their series of women's afternoon conferences by congressional districts. The first will be at Rock Island this afternoon. Similar gatherings will be held at Freeport tomorrow, at Dixon on Wednesday, at Flora on Thursday, and at Murphysboro on Friday. The candidates will separate into two groups for evening meetings. Lyons will be at Freeport this evening.

Scott W. Lucas, the Democratic nominee, will be at Clinton and Monticello this afternoon and at Champaign this evening. His engagements for tomorrow are at Marshall, Villa Grove, Paris, Charleston, and Mat-

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt brought his week of relaxation in his boyhood home here to a close today and tonight boarded a train for Washington.

Back in the capital tomorrow Mr. Roosevelt is expected to turn his attention first to European developments since the settlement of the Czech-German crisis. He will receive reports assembled from American embassies and legations from Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state.

Tuesday night he will join in the celebration of Mrs. Roosevelt's 53d birthday.

Arthur Lorenzen, owner of the restaurant, would not sign a complaint against the youth, so he was released.

Farmers Rebel in Nebraska; Turn Against Roosevelt AAA

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—The Democratic party's hold on Nebraska is seriously menaced by the dissatisfaction of the farmers with the Roosevelt administration's farm program. The Republicans appear to have an excellent chance of electing their state ticket and of gaining one or two congressmen. No senator is being elected this year.

Charles W. Bryan, independent candidate for governor.

Low corn and wheat prices are the cause of the defection of farmers from the New Deal. The state is fairly echoing with the arguments put forth in meetings of farmers that the Democrats have been given a fair opportunity to demonstrate that crop control would bring farmers profitable prices for their products but have failed to make good.

It is also evident that the farmers are watching with uneasiness the steady increase of the public debt, with the increasing taxation and the danger of inflation thereby entailed.

Dislike Labor Policies.

Not the least interesting of the political phenomena observable in Nebraska is the reaction of farmers to the Roosevelt business and labor policies. By many leaders of influence in agricultural communities the low price of corn and wheat is being attributed in large part to the persecution of business by the New Deal.

By encouraging sitdown strikes and other tactics of John Lewis' C. I. O., by the operation of the one-sided Wagner act and its administration by the labor relations board, by the numerous restrictions and taxes imposed upon industry, and by his constant harassment of business men as "economic royalists," the President, according to this argument, has stalled private enterprise.

Business Suffers.

As a result of the Roosevelt policies business men are finding it unprofitable to engage in business; are preferring to invest their funds in tax exempt bonds. The upshot is a stagnation of business, continued unemployment on a vast scale, and consequent failure of the power of workingmen to purchase the products of the farm.

The spread of this view among the farmers is proving so damaging to the Roosevelt administration that Democratic leaders are at great pains to combat it. Naturally the Republicans are exploiting the argument for all it's worth.

The administration is battling desperately to keep the farmers from backsliding from devotion to the AAA and its author, the Democratic party. There is no room for doubt that if the question of imposing compulsory storage quotas on corn as provided by the law had been put to a vote the Nebraska farmers would have repudiated the AAA.

Wallace Forced to Act.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace was correctly advised of the situation and did some nimble juggling of figures to stave off a referendum, the result of which would have been a serious blow to Democratic prospects in the approaching election.

A referendum would have been obligatory under the law if the combined prospective corn crop and carryover were as much as 2,913,000,000 bushels. Mr. Wallace estimated 2,886,000,000 bushels and averted the referendum to the intense relief of the Democratic leaders hereabout.

If there had been a referendum and compulsory corn storage quotas had been rejected by the farmers there could have been no price stabilizing loans. As it turns out, with the referendum avoided, the loans are mandatory. The government was loaning on corn at 50 cents a bushel. Now the loans on Nebraska sealed corn have been upped to 57 cents, which is 10 cents above the market price.

Democratic Ranks Split.

A split in Democratic ranks is also furthering Republican chances. Democratic Gov. Roy L. Cochran is running for reëlection. But, also seeking the governorship as an independent candidate, is perennial Charles W. [Brother Charley] Bryan, former governor. Mr. Bryan is a Democrat and is expected to draw a good deal of support away from Cochran by virtue of the alluring promises held out by the Bryan platform.

Bryan espouses a $5,000 tax exemption of homesteads, a proposition that is exceedingly attractive to the tax ridden farmers, a large proportion of whom has been voting the Democratic ticket in the last six years. Bryan also is making a special appeal to the aged with his promise of a $30 pension. The present law provides for a $30 maximum monthly pension, but because of the lack of revenue the state has been paying not more than $17. Gov. Cochran says that more taxes must be levied to raise it to $30. Bryan says it can be done by economies in state administration.

Bryan for Townsend Plan.

Bryan also has indorsed the Townsend plan, a petition for which has just been signed by 300,000 Nebraskans. The Republican candidate for governor, who is profiting from this Democratic division, is Charles J. Warner, a well known farmer who was first speaker of Nebraska's Democratic unicameral legislature. He contends that the aged could be adequately cared for if politics were eliminated from the old age pension administration.

The Republicans appear to have an excellent chance of gaining house seats in the 1st and 4th congressional districts. In the 1st district George H. Heinke is the Republican opponent of Democratic incumbent Henry C. Luckey.

In the 4th district the Republican candidate, Carl T. Curtis, is making such headway in his campaign that the Democratic incumbent, Charles G. Binderup, has engaged a hillbilly band for his rallies.

EASY PAROLES PILE UP VOTES OF N. Y. DEMOCRACY

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—A reservoir of voting strength for the Tammany-Democratic machine in the forthcoming election is derived from the practice of freeing criminals from penal institutions. The parole population of the state numbered 7,558 on Oct. 1.

In the recent policy racket trial of Tammany Leader Jimmy Hines, powerful lieutenant in the Roosevelt-Tammany combination, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey brought out evidence that the political boss tries first to "fix" a case through a corrupt judge or prosecutor. If the defendant receives a sentence then the final move is for parole.

Factor in Political Success.

Families, relatives, and friends are beholden to the politician who obtains the release of the convict. Leniency with the criminal is one of the factors in the political success of the Democratic machine which has enjoyed a sixteen year unbroken rule over New York state.

Clemency is a power given to the governor. New York governors, including the incumbent, Herbert H. Lehman, and his predecessor, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, have made a practice of exercising this prerogative.

Lehman is opposed for reëlection by Dewey, the Republican gubernatorial nominee, and Dewey is not expected to draw many votes from the underworld, the heart of which he attacked in his successful war on the rackets.

So far this year Gov. Lehman has commuted the death sentences of seven men to life imprisonment. Last year he granted eleven commutations, but the all time record was set by Roosevelt. In 1932, the year he ran for president, Roosevelt saved thirteen convicted killers from the chair.

Lehman's Brother on Bench.

New York governors usually excuse their clemency for killers on the grounds that the Court of Appeals, the state's highest tribunal, has not been unanimous in upholding the conviction of certain slayers. Herein lies an interesting sidelight.

One of the members of the Court of Appeals is Justice Irving Lehman, brother of the governor and known among members of the bar for an extra soft heart when it comes to capital punishment. In fact, defense lawyers point their appeals to that soft heart to obtain a dissenting voice in the court's opinion and thereby give the governor an alibi for saving their clients from the chair.

Justice Lehman, incidentally, is reported to be a candidate for chief justice of the Appeals court when the election comes up next year. The present chief justice, Frederick E. Crane, a Republican, will reach the automatic retirement age of 70 provided in the constitution next year.

Each May Head Department.

If Gov. Lehman is elected for a fourth term on Nov. 8 and Irving Lehman is named chief justice next year the two brothers will head two of the three branches of the New York state government, executive and judicial.

The parole population of New York state has risen from less than 3,000, when Roosevelt took office as governor early in 1929, to the present total of 7,558. Many law enforcement officers blame the bulk of the 40,000 felonies committed in New York state yearly on these parolees. Last year the parole division released 2,466 men and women from state prisons.

Roosevelt as governor granted more pardons to robbers, burglars, and killers during his two terms than Lehman has in three. One of the Roosevelt innovations was the pardoning of a criminal so that he could avoid deportation. Under federal law an alien who has committed two crimes involving moral turpitude is liable to deportation.

U. S. Government Objects.

Two federal judges, Alfred C. Coxe and Julian W. Mack, declared they would not honor the Roosevelt "deportation escapes." The federal government could not accept the pardons, which had provision for parole attached, the courts held. The labor department at Washington also rebuked the New York governor for "nullifying" federal orders of deportation. Roosevelt then, and Lehman after him, bestowed pardons upon various underworld characters who thus remained on these shores.

99 OUT OF 100 STILL CALL IT CRAWFORD AVE.

Residents Determined to Get Name Back.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Officially, the name of the street bisecting Chicago at 4000 west has been Pulaski road for five years. To most people along it, however, it still is Crawford avenue.

Many street car conductors still call out "Crawford avenue." Numerous business men still use Crawford avenue on their letterheads. Ninety-nine out of 100 persons, referring to the street, say "Crawford."

People Still Getting Lost.

It became Pulaski in 1933, but loyalty—or habit—still burns deeply. A newsboy at the intersection of Milwaukee road observed pointedly—"Maybe you call it Pulaski, but it's Crawford to us." A middle-aged newsgirl at the intersection of North avenue sighed, "It's five years and people still fuss, still get lost." A street car conductor on the Pulaski road line said: "Why, half the people in Chicago don't even know this street's name has ever been changed.

"And if Haussen court is named Crawford avenue just so Pulaski road can't be called by that name again," the conductor hazarded, his eyes bright with scorn, "then you'll really have something!"

[The Haussen court move is called a subterfuge by those who want Pulaski road renamed Crawford avenue. They say the Pulaski faction initiated it because the law provides that a street can't be given a name already borne by another. Thus if Haussen court becomes Crawford avenue, the effort to rename Pulaski road is forever blocked.]

Fearful of Confusion.

"Why," the aroused conductor expanded, "nine-tenths of the people who ride around the city have to be told how to go, anyway. Somehow, they confuse themselves, or else," with a frown, "they don't think. Just think what this Haussen business would do to them. Or to the postman. . . ."

Another conductor volunteered the information that he always called out "Crawford," rather than Pulaski. "Pulaski is too confusing," he explained. Too, a surface lines supervisor added, Crawford "is easier to remember and to pronounce."

Many business houses along the long, unbeautiful street still call it Crawford avenue in their names. "Crawford grill; Crawford laundry; Crawford cleaners. It is used in innumerable instances.

"We have never changed. It's always been Crawford to us," the manager of a wholesale auto supply house explained. "Any one who sends us merchandise addressed to Pulaski road has been asked to correct his error.

Build Up Name and Want It.

"We use the name Crawford as our address on everything, invoices, bills, stationery," pulling out a sheaf of new envelopes as proof. "Ten or twelve years from now I suppose it'll be Pulaski, but we're going to try to keep it as long as possible."

As final proof he tossed his mail for the last three days on the desk. It consisted of thirty-one letters. Eleven were addressed to him on Pulaski road, twenty on Crawford avenue. "You'll find," he added, "that it's the same with most business men. They've built that name up. Now they want to keep it."

Cite Pulaski's Other Honors.

Another observed, with a sigh, that he had no rancor for Casimir Pulaski, Polish general who fought in the American revolution. "But they've got mountains and towns all over the United States named for this Pulaski," he cried. "Why a street, too? Or why not a street that was a number instead of a name?"

But it remained for Mrs. Margaret J. Enser of 1820 Keeler avenue, a rotund little housewife out shopping along the disputed thoroughfare, to give what she said is the "average woman's" viewpoint.

"I'm for Crawford 100 per cent," she declared, almost pugnaciously. "It's been Crawford and we like it Crawford. I've lived here forty years, so I guess I know what we like."

FOUND SHOT TO DEATH.

Julius Markowski, 44 years old, was found dead last night in the basement of his home at 2021 South Albany avenue. A bullet wound in the head, apparently self inflicted, caused death.

Wedding Nears

IDA LUPINO.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 9.—[Special.] Filmland had something to talk about today all because Ida Lupino, film actress, and Louis Hayward, leading man, went to court together one day last week.

It wasn't for the purpose that Hollywood couples usually go to court, they explained, for they are not even married—but they are going to be.

Engaged for more than a year, the couple has been a constant twosome around the motion picture city. Consequently when Hayward appeared in court recently to testify against William Hawkins, 22 years old, held for stealing the actor's car, Miss Lupino was with him. They are to be married as soon as Hayward completes his current motion picture rôle.

DOCTOR LURED BY RUSE IS ROBBED BY DOPE BANDIT

A drug bandit worked a ruse last night to rob Dr. Peter Strofs, 4652 Jackson boulevard, of $55 and a small quantity of morphine.

The robber first appeared at the Sadkin pharmacy, 332 South Cicero avenue, and asked for a physician to attend his mother. The clerk recommended Dr. Strofs and the man telephoned him. He arranged to meet the doctor in front of 4623 Monroe street.

In front of that address the bandit boarded Dr. Strofs' car and drew a gun. He robbed him of his money and about one and one-half grains of morphine a few minutes later.

FAMILY, GUESTS HELD CAPTIVE AS HOME IS ROBBED

Two bandits took possession last night of the apartment of William Chicigouras and his wife, Bessie, on the third floor at 4908 North Rockwell street, and robbed them and two guests of $6, a wrist watch, and some change from a child's bank.

Chicigouras, a restaurant owner, was expecting several more guests at 10:30 p. m. when the doorbell rang. He responded and was confronted by the bandits, both masked. They held him, his wife, Paul Margias of the same address, and Andrew Blacy of Ottawa, Ill., prisoners for twenty minutes while they ransacked the apartment.

Unveil Pulaski Portrait Tomorrow; Mayor to Speak

An oil painting of Gen. Pulaski, Polish hero of the American revolution, will be unveiled in Pulaski park auditorium, Blackhawk and Noble streets, tomorrow night. Mayor Kelly, various other city and county officials, the Polish consul, and Polish leaders will participate in the ceremony. The portrait, the work of W. F. Krawiec, is being presented by Ald. Joseph P. Rostenkowski [32d].

VICTIM IN ARSON FAKE IS FOUND HIDING IN FEAR

Points Out Hotels Where He Was Tortured.

Frank Kolesiak, a third degree victim of State Fire Marshal Sherman V. Coultas' office in a fake arson case, was found last night after he had been mysteriously missing for eight days. He is a vital prosecution witness against those responsible for the fake. In three words Kolesiak explained his absence.

"I was scared," he said.

Kolesiak is one of the two men who were seized by amateur sleuths several weeks ago, and accused of starting the fire which caused eight deaths in the Hotel Center, 1422 Madison street, April 6. The other man is Emil Guerrieri. The two were browbeaten by agents of Marshal Coultas into signing bogus confessions. The confessions subsequently were proved to be false, and Kolesiak and Guerrieri were exonerated by the grand jury.

Seek False Arrest Warants.

Since then, Attorney Joseph T. Harrington, who represents both victims, has been trying to get warants charging Coultas and four other men with false arrest. Guerrieri assisted Harrington in this undertaking, but Kolesiak disappeared at the last minute.

Puzzled by Kolesiak's absence, and fearing that illegal pressure had been put upon him to keep him out of sight, Attorney Harrington made a determined effort to find him. On Saturday he announced a $100 reward. Yesterday a stranger told him Kolesiak would be produced. Kolesiak was. Harrington paid the $100 reward.

Kolesiak showed the strain of the torment he experienced when he was forced to sign a bogus confession. The fear engendered then has since been increased by several incidents, he said. These prompted him to go into hiding, he said.

"Several mysterious phone calls were made where I was staying," Kolesiak related. "They set me to thinking. Then I was told I had no chance to fight against officials and that I'd best forget everything."

Accordingly, Kolesiak went into hiding. He did odd jobs here and there for sustenance. He is willing now, he added, to prosecute everybody involved in his fake arrest. Harrington assured him he had nothing to fear.

Kolesiak was taken by Harrington to the Croydon hotel and to 1117 North Dearborn street where Kolesiak had been held prisoner during Marshal Coultas' investigation. Kolesiak pointed out rooms in both places where he had been intimidated.

In the room in the Croydon, he said, Deputy Marshal Frank E. Doherty put him under a 250 watt electric lamp.

Under Lamp Seven Hours.

"The heat was awful," said Kolesiak. "I was kept under that lamp for seven hours, the lamp right over my face. Doherty and others threatened to bring in the wrecking crew to make me confess. The whole story was put into my mouth by Mr. Bonjean [Roscoe Bonjean, Coultas' lawyer]. They told me so much about it, I almost believed it myself."

The warants sought thus far are in Guerrieri's name. The judge in the case is Judge John J. Rooney, of the Felony court. He is to decide this week whether or not to issue warants against Coultas and the others. Meantime, Gov. Horner is personally investigating the part of Coultas in the fake.

2 CUBAN POLITICIANS FIGHT BLOODLESS DUEL IN A GROCERY STORE

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Marcelino Garriga, president of the Cuban house of representatives, and Sergio Carbo, a former cabinet minister, fought a duel with swords today in a midtown grocery store. They fought in the store in order to avoid interference by police.

Sergio Carbo.

Neither was injured after the third engagement and the duel was halted. Garriga then withdrew remarks Carbo had considered offensive. Judge Campo Rivas said both duelists "conducted themselves like gentlemen."

SEIZE SUSPECT IN FATAL TEXAS ROBBERY CHASE

Sought for nearly a year, Charles L. Zib, 19 years old, was in custody of the Berwyn police yesterday for extradition to Houston, Tex. He is wanted there for shooting a policeman, robbery, and the death of a motorist in a collision. Zib was arrested Saturday in his home at 2722 Lombard avenue, Berwyn.

Last Nov. 29, according to police, Zib and a companion held up a young couple in Houston, took their automobile and robbed a liquor store. They shot and wounded a policeman who pursued them, and then crashed into another car. The driver of this car was killed in the crash.

Zib fled, but his companion was seized and is serving 99 years in a Texas prison. Zib admitted the crimes, according to Chief Joseph Pilat and Detective Charles Trucksa, who arrested him.

LOYALISTS SEIZE NEW POSITIONS IN TOLEDO SECTOR

Battle Rages for Hilltops on Ebro Front.

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier], Oct. 9.—(AP)—Spanish government and rebel forces continued bitter but still indecisive fighting today for war torn hilltops along the Ebro river in lower Catalonia. Rebels reported no other action, but government dispatches said Gen. José Miaja's forces had won new positions in the Toledo sector, south of Madrid, in an attack yesterday.

Government dispatches reported heavy aerial bombardments of rebel troop concentrations behind the lines in the northeast. They said casualties in a rebel air attack on a passenger train near Barcelona yesterday surpassed early estimates of sixty dead and 100 injured.

Believe 150 Passengers Killed.

Havas, the French news agency, said 150 passengers aboard the train were killed and 300 were wounded. Many passengers were trampled when the coaches were blasted from the rails and caught fire. Many victims were killed by shattered glass.

Barcelona advices said a lone seaplane made the raid on the train, hitting six wooden coaches. Then, they said, the flyer machine gunned the passengers.

A single rebel seaplane bombed and set fire to the 1,821 ton British freighter in a renewal of air attacks on Barcelona tonight. The fire was quickly extinguished.

Reports Italians Leaving.

Six persons were reported killed and twenty injured in a rebel raid on Aguilas, a Mediterranean seaport thirty-seven miles southwest of Cartagena. Sixty bombs were dropped on the government held port, destroying fifteen buildings.

Information reached Hendaye from rebel Spain that an estimated 18,000 Italian troops would be withdrawn from the Spanish war on Wednesday. The report was that the "23d of March" and the "Littorio" divisions would embark from Seville on three Italian troop ships.

3 KILLED, 1 HURT WHEN AIRPLANE CRASHES STORE

Eau Claire, Wis., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Three persons were killed today when a cabin plane, attempting a forced landing within the city because of motor trouble, struck a store and burst into flames.

The dead are James Small, 25 years old, of Marion, Ky., and Orlie Berkley, 24, and Robert E. Butler, 64, both of Eau Claire. Willis Kysor, 39, of Niles, Mich., the pilot, was in a critical condition with both legs fractured and his body badly burned.

Kysor, with Small and Berkley as passsengers, set out to take aerial pictures but conditions were poor and they were turning back to the airport when the accident occurred. The plane dove into Ole Anderson's store, on Washington and Farewell streets.

Butler, who roomed over the store, was struck and killed as he stepped to the window when he heard the plane. After tearing off a corner of the store, the plane fell into a yard and burst into flames. It was owned by the Abram Aerial service, Lansing, Mich.

Student Pilot Killed.

IRATE AUTO DRIVER KILLS OHIO YOUTH, 18, OVER NEAR COLLISION

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 9.—(AP)—A motorist, angered in a dispute over a near collision, lined up three youths and a girl 16 years old at gunpoint early today and shot one of the youths to death.

The victim was Edward R. Andres, Jr., 18 years old. His companions said the motorist, who escaped, represented himself as a deputy sherif. The only clews left by the killer were a hat and a pencil.

With Andres were William Lostetter, 17, Elmer Wirth, 19, and Rosemary Andrew, a high school student.

MOSCOW, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The capture and sentencing to death of a man described as the dean for foreign spies in soviet Russia was disclosed today.

The army newspaper Red Star referred to the man only as "N," and said he had been operating in Russia since 1912. It described him as "a graduate of the espionage school in Berlin."

The newspaper's account said he was sent to Russia in 1912 with instructions to study highways and transportation and later obtained information on soviet munitions factories and other Russian activities.

The newspaper said that trials of his confederates were continuing.

JAP RIVER FORCE MAKES NEW GAIN TOWARD HANKOW

Three Prongs of Offensive Pushed Forward.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Japanese war advices today reported new advances in the three-pronged drive to capture Hankow, Chinese military capital.

In the central offensive of the three prongs they said the Japanese navy pushed ten miles up the Yangtze river from Kichun to a point 85 miles from Hankow.

Kichun fell yesterday. Today minesweepers were reported to have opened up a channel for ten miles beyond, enabling warships to press forward to bombard Chinese shore batteries.

Occupy Wulitien.

To the north, Japanese said their soldiers late today occupied Wulitien, 20 miles from the Peking-Hankow railway and about 100 miles north of Hankow. This battle sector is in southern Honan province, where the Japanese previously reported the advance guard had cut the railway.

To the south of the Yangtze the invaders were said to have occupied Aikow, a strategically located Chinese fortification slightly north of Teian. Teian is a Chinese defense bulwark 130 miles southeast of Hankow. It is on the Kiukiang-Nanchang railway 30 miles south of the Yangtze.

Command Way to Teian.

Japanese said the occupation of Aikow gave their troops command of Teian, which they have been unable to occupy despite heavy fighting since August.

Northwest of this sector, but also south of the Yangtze, the invaders were reported to have crossed the Fu river and to be threatening Yangsin, an obstacle in the path they are seeking to blast westward to cut the Hankow-Canton rail line south of Hankow.

The Japanese naval air force reported it had executed an important raid last night when a heavy squadron bombed Hengyang, in central Hunan province southwest of Hankow.

50 Killed in Canton.

HONGKONG, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Ten Japanese war planes dropped more than twenty bombs today on Canton, the metropolis of South China. Fifty persons were reported to have been killed. Some of the missils were incendiary bombs which caused several large fires.

SHORN OF DUTIES, DR. BENES FINDS PEACE AT ESTATE

SEZIMOVO USTI, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Shorn of the cares of his beloved republic, Dr. Eduard Benes is finding peace and quiet in the rustic surroundings of his estate on the edge of this obscure community.

He has withdrawn from all public affairs since resigning the presidency of Czechoslovakia after its dismemberment. Seldom does he venture from the broad acres surrounding his big summer home. Walks are his chief diversion.

When he stepped from the presidency Dr. Benes told the nation his personality might become a hindrance to its reconstruction. He apparently is standing firm in his decision to become a private citizen again.

Japs Make Three Gains

(Story in adjoining column.)

Gains were claimed yesterday for three Japanese forces in central China. The northern force (No. 1) occupied Wulitien, the navy (No. 2) moved ten miles up the Yangtze from Kichun, and the southern force (No. 3) occupied Aikow. The shaded area on map represents territory nominally under Japanese control.

BRITAIN TO SEND MORE SOLDIERS INTO HOLY LAND

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Great Britain today ordered additional troops to Palestine to quell Arab-Jewish disorders. Fighting has reached a scale unprecedented since British and Turks fought there during the world war.

[Dispatches from Jerusalem said five persons were killed and eleven were injured over the week-end in racial clashes.]

The colonial office announced that four additional battalions of troops, one artillery battery, and an undisclosed number of armored cars would be sent to the Holy Land in the next two or three weeks.

These will bring to 21,000 the estimated number of British soldiers and police trying to put down a state of virtual civil war. The trouble flared July 3, 1937, when a British royal commission recommended partition of Palestine into Arab and Jewish states, and a British mandated section.

The decision to send the reinforcements was made after Malcolm MacDonald, secretary for colonies, conferred with government officials. Sir Harold MacMichael, high commissioner for Palestine, was called to London for the conferences. He will confer further with MacDonald tomorrow and Tuesday before returning to his post.

AUTO OFFICIAL STRICKEN; DIES.

CHINA FORESEES AN ATTEMPT TO IMPOSE A PEACE

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

HANKOW, Oct. 9.—Reports from Chinese diplomats in Europe support the growing belief of the average informed Chinese that one of the outcomes of the Munich agreement eventually will be to endeavor to impose peace on China and Japan on the part of England, Germany, France, and Italy. It is feared the peace would be at China's expense. It is thought the peace efforts will be begun energetically if Hankow falls to the Japanese.

It is pointed out that England and France by quietly cutting off military trafic through Hongkong, Indo-China, and Burma, could prevent China getting supplies from any source except through Russia. Most observers are not inclined to believe such a step would be taken, but the possibility provides no comfort to the Chinese who wish to carry on the struggle against the Japanese.

The Chinese generally now are drawing doleful conclusions of the abandonment of Czechoslovakia to Germany.

Mexico Acts to Bar Entry of Exiled Austrian Jews

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 9.—Secretary of the Interior Garcia Tellez has requested the foreign office to cancel the right of Mexican consuls in Europe to grant tourist and immigration visas, the newspaper Universal said today. The action was taken because many Austrian political exiles, mostly Jews, have received tourist cards to come to Mexico, the newspaper said. It added that the action represents another restrictive measure against Jewish refugee immigration.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA AGREES TO GIVE UP LAND TO HUNGARY

Prague to Free All Magyar Political Prisoners.

(Map in Adjoining Column.)

KOMAROM, Czechoslovakia [on the Czechoslovak-Hungarian frontier], Oct. 9.—(AP)—Czechoslovakia tonight agreed to release all Hungarian political prisoners in the first agreement to be reached in negotiations with Hungary over the latter's territorial and minority claims.

An official announcement at the close of the initial Czechoslovak-Hungarian conference said Hungary is to occupy within 24 hours the Czechoslovak part of the border town of Satoraljaujhely and the town of Ipolysag within 36 hours.

The Prague government also promised to discharge immediately all Hungarian speaking soldiers from the Czechoslovak army.

Résume Parley Today.

Experts representing the two governments are to meet here tomorrow morning while the Czechoslovak and Hungarian delegates resume their negotiations.

The diplomats of the two countries opened their sessions on the Czechoslovak side of the Danube river—the international dividing line which runs through this town—to solve peaceably Hungary's demands.

Negotiations for dismembered Czechoslovakia were left to representatives of the new autonomous Slovak state within the republic, which would be most affected by the demands, and by a representative of sub-Carpathian Russia [Ruthenia], where Hungary would like a plebiscite.

Walk Across Bridge.

Heads of the Hungarian delegation were Foreign Minister Koloman Von Kanya and Count Paul Teleki, minister of education. They walked across the 2,600-foot steel bridge over the Danube after their automobile was stopped at Czechoslovakia's barricades and were driven to the conference in the town hall in their hosts' automobiles on the other side.

Thousands of exuberant Hungarians lined the Danube's banks as the Hungarian delegation walked across the bridge, past where Czechoslovaks only shortly before had removed cannon, machine guns and barbed wire entanglements.

"Long live Hungary," they shouted excitedly. "Let's march in now!"

A Reuter's, British news agency, dispatch from Prague reported that an unidentified plane scattered leaflets over parts of Ruthenia urging its inhabitants to secede from Czechoslovakia. The leaflets, in Russian and Hungarian languages, told the people not to pay taxes and the soldiers to desert from the Czechoslovak army.

Ellsworth Ship Reaches Cape Town for Expedition

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Oct. 9.—The motor vessel Wyatt Earp, base supply ship of the Ellsworth antarctic expedition, arrived here today carrying members of the expedition and two planes to be used for exploration in the antarctic. Lieutenant Commander Lincoln Ellsworth, expedition leader, will join the ship here.

Czechoslovakia Keeps on Shrinking

(Stories on Pages 1, 6, and 7.)

The dismembered Czechoslovak republic continued to dwindle in size yesterday with the German occupation of the fifth zone in full swing. Dotted line shows the frontier of Czechoslovakia before the ceding of Sudetenland to Germany. Polish troops hastened occupation of former Czechoslovak territory while Hungary was granted a share of her demands for a piece of the republic in a conference at Komarom. Captions on map show chief events in European drama.

ROSES FOR HITLER MIGHT CONTAIN BOMBS, NAZI SAYS

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The incident of the roses when Adolf Hitler was scratched on the face by a bouquet tossed at him in Sudetenland "furnished a welcome occasion for guarding against the possibility" that flowers might at some time contain explosives. This statement was made by a prominent Nazi editor today.

"While the incident of the roses was harmless," he said that in Sudetenland "things were not yet as fully in the hands of German authorities when our Fuehrer boldly entered as they are in the reich."

As a result of the scratch received last Friday, Hitler ordered that the throwing of flowers cease and that Nazi leaders would be held responsible for seeing that bouquets were taken away from spectators along the routes of his triumphant tour.

FARMER'S EYE REMOVED.

Logansport, Ind., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Surgeon's today removed the right eye of Joe Felix, 26 years old, a farmer. The eye was injured Friday when struck by a piece of steel while Felix was at work on a combine harvester.

HITLER EXTENDS WALL OF FORTS ON WEST FRONT

Tells Foreign Powers to Mind Own Business.

which secured justice for 10 million Germans and peace to the world.

"I am happy these millions of Germans are free, that they belong to us, and that peace has been secured.

"Nevertheless, the experiences, especially of the last eight months, must strengthen our resolve to be careful and never to leave anything undone that must be done for the protection of the reich.

"Opposite us are statesmen who—we must believe of them—also want peace. However, they govern in countries whose internal construction makes it possible for them at any time to be supplanted by others who do not aim at peace.

"These others are there. In England, it merely is necessary that instead of Chamberlain a Duff Cooper, or Eden, or Churchill come into power.

"We know that the aim of these men would be to start war. They do not attempt to hide it. That obligates us to be on the watch and to think of the protection of the reich."

Amid cheers of his audience, Hitler told how "for six years I have fanatically devoted myself to the task of national armament."

"I am of the opinion that it is cheaper to arm before events than to lie prostrate, unprepared for events and then have to pay tribute to foreign countries," he said.

The Fuehrer warned that "the Jewish international world enemy is still crouching." He attacked the international press which, he said, "only exists on lies and slanders" and then said:

"The characteristics of the world about us and of these forces must make us cautious about the future. We must at all times have a will for peace, but be ready for defense."

Konrad Henlein, newly appointed commissioner of Sudetenland, announced at Reichenberg, which is in the fifth zone of German occupation in former Czechoslovak territory, that the Sudeten German Free Corps had been disarmed. The corps had a strength of 40,000 men. Hitler is expected to visit Reichenberg, which will be the chief city of the new Sudeten province of Germany.

FRENCH DISMISS HITLER'S SPEECH AS 'OLD STUFF'

PARIS, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The immediate French reaction to Reichsfuehrer Hitler's speech today at Saarbruecken, close to Germany's frontier with France, was to dismiss it as "old stuff for internal consumption."

"We cannot expect bombshells every day," was the comment of one source close to the government.

Military sources said the French general staf had known before that Germany planned fortifications in the Saar and Aachen districts, hence they were not surprised by the Fuehrer's announcement.

POLISH SOLDIERS MOVE IN FASTER AT CZECH PLEA

Occupy Railway Junction Northwest of Teschen.

TESCHEN, Poland, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Polish troops today occupied Bohumin, important railroad junction town. They were not to have reached that point until Tuesday, according to the arrangement for cession of the former Czechoslovak territory.

Bohumin, northwest of here, is close to the junction of the German, Polish, and former Czechoslovak frontiers.

Polish sentries were posted along the entire length of the new border at noon.

The plans for occupation were changed suddenly last night, Warsaw foreign office officials said. They declared Czechoslovakia had requested it. They maintained that in view of the rapid advance of German troops through ceded parts of Silesia Prague feared disorders in areas left to it between Poland and Germany.

Col. Beck Visits City.

They said Czechoslovakia wanted Poland to take Bohumin without delay to leave her hands free to preserve order in what remains of the country.

Col. Joseph Beck, Polish foreign minister, visited Teschen today, inspecting Poland's new territorial acquisitions on an automobile tour through the region.

Benes square, named for resigned President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia, was renamed Col. Beck square in his honor.

Te deums were sung in all Polish churches to celebrate the return of Teschen to Poland.

Town Demands Plebiscite.

PETERSWALD, Czechoslovakia [on the Czechoslovak-Polish frontier], Oct. 9.—(AP)—Thousands of inhabitants of this mining town of northern Silesia, angrily facing the prospect of becoming Polish, are demanding a plebiscite to let them decide for themselves. Czechoslovakia already has agreed to Polish occupation of the town this week.

But the citizens of Peterswald declare Poland wants the town only for the three coal mines here and contend she has no justifiable claim. They base their principal arguments on the census of 1930 which, they declare, showed that of almost 11,000 inhabitants only 134 were Poles.

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Only 18 years old and the wife of a sophomore in Renssalaer Polytechnic institue, Mrs. Guy Stillman is taking her place as an active club and society matron. Her most recent social activity has been serving as a model in a fashion show conducted by the City club of nearby Albany. Mrs. Stillman is the former Nancy Holbrook, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Holbrook of Barrington, Ill. Her husband is a son of Mrs. Fowler McCormick of Chicago and James A. Stillman of New York. The young Stillmans were married in Barrington last Aug. 24.

2 SUDETEN NAZIS SLAIN BY CZECHS, GERMANS REPORT

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—(AP)—DNB, the official news agency, today reported from Troppau, Sudetenland, that two Sudeten Germans were shot and killed by Czechoslovak soldiers a few hours before German troops entered that city.

The agency said that a boy, 14 years old, also was shot to death yesterday in Schillerdorf as Czechoslovak forces left that town.

The two Sudeten German victims, the agency said, were on their way to Gilschwitz, a few miles south of Troppau, to prepare the way for handing the town over to the German troops when they were fired on by a Czechoslovak post.

CZECHS STRIVE TO REORGANIZE GLOOMY NATION

Country Slowly Returns to Normal Conditions.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 9.—(AP)—With German occupation of the fifth zone of shrunken Czechoslovakia in full swing and unopposed and orderly, the republic is trying to set up two new governments in its diminished territory.

At Komarom, where Czechoslovak, German and Hungarian borders meet on the Danube, Dr. Joseph Tiso, prime minister of the new Slovak autonomous state, took over the provincial government building.

He launched his régime on the informal but jubilant manifestation of public will and with authorization from Prague rather than on constitutional authority.

Communist Party Outlawed.

As one of its first acts the new Slovak government outlawed the communist party. Communists are few in Slovakia and the decree was considered as an indication of a nationalist trend which might lead to severance of the Czechoslovak alliance with soviet Russia.

The Czechoslovak constitution makes no provision for autonomy, but a constitutional revision would be so complicated, because the nation's new borders have yet to be defined, that the formality has been left pending while reconstruction proceeds.

The second government will be that of sub-Carpathian Russia [Ruthenia], which has been assured by Premier General Jan Syrovy that it will be granted rights equal to those given Slovakia.

Negotiations Up to Slovaks.

Complicated negotiations for settling Hungary's territorial demands have been left by Prague largely to the new Slovak state. Only Slovaks and one representative of Ruthenia were named to meet the Hungarians at talks which started tonight at Komarom.

There are increasing signs that life in this saddened country is returning to normal.

Internal airplane service has been resumed. Savings banks announced reopening of all their departments. Some train lines have been restored, but international railroad services still are interrupted.

Nazi Leader Says Danzig Will Decide Its Own Fate

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Nazi Leader Albert Forster told a meeting of the Danzig Nazi leader corps today that this virtually 100 per cent German free city would decide its own fate. He announced that seventy of the seventy-two deputies in Danzig's parliament were members of the Nazi party. Danzig, formerly a part of Germany, was made a free city under the supervision of the league of nations after the world war.

You gave us the clue

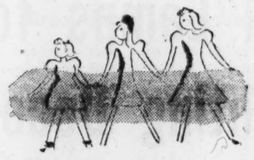
GIRLS' CLOTHES ARE NOW SIZED BY INCHES—NOT AGE—AT FIELD'S



You told us what a struggle it was buying clothes by age, when children of the same age differ so in size! You'd found, too, that a size from one manufacturer often did not correspond to the same size from another.

"Can't a store like Field's solve this problem for us?" you asked. We went to work . . . devised a sound and simple new system of marking. Here's the story:

Every dress in our stock of girls' wear is now marked for your convenience with waist, chest and length measurement in inches . . . every coat with length measure . . . every skirt with waist and length measure.

Now you can select clothes that specially suit your child's build. You can shop without your child if you have her measurements . . . and know that when she tries on your selections they will fit. We hope you'll come in soon to inspect our system of marking. Test it out when you buy clothes for your little girl. Then tell us what you think of this Field innovation. And . . . suggest anything more that we can do that will be a help to you.

If she's chubby

If she's tall for her age

If she's beginning to have a figure

THOUSANDS FACE EXAMINATIONS ON FITNESS TO DRIVE

State's Requirements and Procedure Outlined.

BY HAL FOUST.

Annually between 100,000 and 200,000 Illinois motorists will be required to pass a drivers' license examination. Yesterday Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes made public the details of these tests and the requirements for passing.

Application blanks for drivers' license will be available at the Tribune Public Service offices at Dearborn and Madison streets and in the Tribune Tower this noon. The forms are also being distributed through the offices of the secretary of state, and through police, city, and county clerks, and motor clubs.

Most of the 2,250,000 motorists in Illinois will obtain their licenses without examination. The secretary of state has discretion to order a test if answers on the application blank do not state qualifications to his satisfaction.

67,500 New Drivers a Year.

From statistics in other states, it is estimated that there will be 67,500 new drivers in Illinois each year. These consist of minors reaching the legal driving age and older persons buying their first automobile. Others who must take the test are those with physical handicaps and those whose licenses are revoked by the courts for manslaughter, drunken driving, or a third conviction for speeding or reckless driving within a year.

Downstate, Illinois highway police will conduct the examinations. In Chicago, the city police wil coöperate with the secretary of state in making the tests. A school for the examiners will open in Springfield next Monday with national safety council experts as instructors.

The examinations have been standardized in a manual. There will be a cursory physical inspection, a test of the eyes, a questioning on trafic laws and rules of the road, and an actual demonstration behind the wheel. The entire performance will take an average of 18 minutes.

Applicant Is Examined.

On appearing before the examiner, the police will note whether the applicant has two arms, two legs, and two eyes. The examiner will also note the general appearance of the applicant and if there is reason to suspect his physical fitness, a doctor's certificate might be required. Conventional vision charts and color charts will be used.

The applicant will be required to read various trafic signals and road signs and to tell their meanings. He must score correct on seven of ten trafic law problems.

If the examiner is satisfied in this indoor part of the tests, he then accompanies the applicant on an eight minute demonstration drive. In these eight minutes, the applicant passes stop signs, slow signs, makes turns, stops, backs up, parks—performs most of the functions of car operation. A score is kept. If the driver receives a prescribed number of demerits, he is flunked. He is told of his mistakes and is assigned a later date for another examination.

FALL INJURIES FATAL TO WOMAN.

Injuries incurred in a fall in her home caused the death yesterday in the County hospital of Mrs. Annie Murphy, 75 years old, 263 North Pulaski road.

Steer Is Winner

Steer unseats Earl Strauss, Denver, performer in rodeo opening this week at Stadium.

Champion riders from the west are arriving for the world's championship rodeo, which opens in the Chicago Stadium next Thursday night. Six of last year's champions are returning: Lonnie Rooney of Wilson, Okla.; Dave Campbell of Bartlett, Neb.; Andy Henderson of Okema, Okla.; Ken Roberts of Strong City, Kas.; Tom Taylor of Sonora, Tex., and Floyd Peters of Browning, Mont. The performances will be nightly. The engagement will continue through Oct. 30.

9 Cars of 50 Car Train Derailed Near Bellwood

Nine cars of a fifty car Great Western freight train were derailed yesterday near Bellwood after one of the wheels on the thirty-ninth car broke. All the cars contained meat. Trafic on the railroad was tied up three hours.

BACTERIA GET RUNAROUND TO MAKE AIR SAFE

A small but efficient device that measures the bacterial content of air is being tested by scientists at the University of Illinois school of medicine. They hope to find a formula for air conditioning that will safeguard health.

Dr. Lloyd Arnold.

The machine, which is about two inches in diameter and ten inches long, is known as the Wells centrifuge and was designed at Harvard university. When air is drawn into it, the whirling motion of centrifugal force makes all bacteria adhere to a cylinder. The germs then can be incubated and counted. Dr. Lloyd Arnold of the school's department of bacteriology said it would be possible to determine how many bacteria are permissible without danger of any one contracting air borne diseases such as pneumonia, scarlet fever, or influenza.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, has assisted the scientists by placing centrifuges in hospitals, schools, theaters, and homes.

3 BURNED WHILE BATTLING ZION ROADHOUSE FIRE

Three persons were injured early yesterday fighting a fire in the Club Caliente, a roadhouse on Green Bay road just west of Zion.

The blaze, which did about $2,500 damages was extinguished by the Zion fire department. Those injured are Firemen Clarence Peterson and Leonard Brownlow, and George Stried, the tavern owner. Jack, a shepherd dog, was revived after being found overcome by smoke.

Stried is a former assistant police chief of Zion. During the dry era he worked on a state's attorney's sponge squad closing speakeasies.

ROBBER STABBED TO DEATH.

An unidentified colored robber was stabbed to death yesterday when he attempted to hold up DeWitt Boone, colored, a cab driver, at 56th street and Calumet avenue.

A LITTLE LIGHT

By CALEB

OF ALL MAN'S fine inventions I think perhaps his lamps do most to make his home. The first smoky flare of a resinous knot changed the prehistoric cave from a dank, black cell into a room. Man concerned himself early with lamps—they were among the first things his handicraft produced.

Down through the ages his household lighting progressed with his skill and mastery of physics. Walk along a street today: it is autumn—just at dusk, a touch of frost in the air. Now in some window close at hand a lamp is lighted. Instantly the house assumes a new and stronger personality. The scheme of life within is on display, its warmth and beauty projected through curtained glass for all the world to see.

How faithfully lamps mirror the dwellers in a home. Their discreet, modest proclamation of light sets forth for all to see the measure of culture, charm and hospitality inherent in the household. It is strange how many peoples and cultures contribute to the ancient art of making lamps. In our own lamp department the porcelains of Copenhagen, of China, France, England, Mexico, our own country and South America mingle with the skillfully wrought metals of other countries, and the delicate wood patterns of still others.

Man and his lamps—perhaps as keen and complete an expression of his personality and tastes as any single item of furniture affords. The symbol—and the evidence—of life. Lamps that flickered to the breeze pulsing through great halls; lamps that have swung to the roll of a sailing vessel, their copper brackets weathered with the salt spray of a hundred storms. Light—the enemy of crime, the companion of knowledge, the custodian of homely warmth, the signal, the warning, the protection, the friend and kindly adviser.

Light—the superb artist, catching subtle nuances in the sheen of satin, softening that which is ugly, reflecting and enhancing the beautiful and the good. Warm, glowing light—without which man might build his house, but could not build a home.

10,000 SAFETY EXPERTS IN CITY TO SAVE LIVES

61,000 Accidental Deaths Parley Challenge.

BY HAL FOUST.

Approximately 10,000 specialists in accident prevention are assembled in Chicago from all parts of America for the opening this morning of the twenty-fifth annual congress of the national safety council. In the next five days 500 speakers, chairmen, and panel participants at 125 separate sessions will discuss the mishaps which took 61,500 lives in this country during the first eight months of this year. The convention is in the Stevens hotel.

Leslie J. Sorenson examining exhibit at safety conference.

Experts will reports their findings in many fields—automotive, aeronautical, marine, agricultural, domestic, and industrial. Receiving primary consideration is motor car trafic. In the first eight months of this year the nation's trafic toll was reduced 21 per cent compared with the same period last year.

5,070 Fewer Lives Lost.

These professional students of the subject are seeking to analyze this decline of 5,070 in lives lost on streets and highways during the first three-quarters of 1938. It was not due to any reduction in trafic volumes; gasoline consumption is about the same as last year.

"The public has become alert to the motor massacre," Leslie J. Sorenson, Chicago trafic engineer and president of the Institute of Trafic Engineers, surmised. "The slaughter has continued long enough for almost all of us to have relatives or close personal friends among the victims.

"Because the public is aroused, there have been safer driving by individuals, safer average pedestrian habits, safer policing, safer trafic control, safer automobiles, and safer street and highway designs."

300 Trafic Engineers Present.

This institute, a national association described by its name, is holding separate and joint meetings with the national safety council today and tomorrow. About 300 trafic engineers are attending. They are employés of cities, states, motor clubs, insurance companies, universities, and equipment manufacturers. A preliminary business session was held yesterday afternoon.

This morning the engineers will hear reports on studies of parking problems by John T. Gibala of the New York City police; Hawley S. Simpson, New York research engineer; Fred W. Fisch of Schenectady, N. Y., and E. B. Lefferts of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

This afternoon Prof. Roger L. Morrison of the University of Michigan will preside at a joint session at which Mr. Sorenson will report on a committee investigation of pedestrian control and protection. This evening Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the United States bureau of roads, will address the engineers' annual banquet.

Night Trafic Hazards a Topic.

Night trafic hazards, urban and rural, will occupy a morning session tomorrow. In the afternoon there will be discussions of express highways, elevated highways, and cross country superhighways.

In the Stevens exhibition hall this week safety equipment and supplies for homes, offices, factories, and streets is on display. The exhibit is open to the public. There's a non-skid sidewalk material, an audible speed indicator for automobiles, metal toed shoes for laborers, fire extinquishers—a wide variety of gadgets, tools, and machines designed to reduce accident risks. An insurance company is displaying a cutaway of an automobile used to patrol the highways and photograph violations by its policy holders.

BIG TIM MURPHY'S BROTHER ACCUSED OF ATTACKING WOMAN

James Murphy, 46 years old, a brother of Big Tim Murphy, slain prohibition figure, was held by Deering police yesterday, accused of attempting to attack a young woman near 36th street and Wallace avenue. The young woman, employed as a manicurist in a loop hotel, signed a complaint against Murphy. She said that shortly after she left a street car at 35th street and Parnell avenue Saturday night she noticed that Murphy was following her. Before she could get to her home nearby, she said, he put his hand over her mouth and tried to drag her into an alley. She screamed and several men seized him as he was walking away, she said. Murphy was exhibited at the detective bureau showup yesterday, but none of the crime victims there identified him. He said he is a sign painter and gave his address as the Englewood Y. M. C. A. at 6545 Union avenue.

EXPECT HEAVY REGISTRATION OF VOTERS TODAY

Election officials said last night that they expected a heavy registration of voters today in the Chicago election board territory and tomorrow in the country towns under the jurisdiction of County Clerk Michael J. Flynn.

They based this forecast on a steady increase in the daily number of applicants at the city hall and the county building during the last month. Republican leaders construed these signs as favorable for their party, contending that many eligible Republicans failed to register for the April primary because there was no party contest over the nominations. The Democrats had a hot battle that brought out all their available voters.

All of the regular precinct polling places in the election board territory—3,648 in Chicago and 202 in ten suburbs—will be open today from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. to receive registrations and reports of changes of address.

FIND DAZED WOMAN WANDERER.

An unidentified woman, about 45 years old, apparently suffering from a mental disturbance, was found wandering yesterday in the 5900 block in Patterson avenue. She was taken to the psychopathic hospital.

First Death Splits Ranks of Pacific Island Colonists

HONOLULU, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The first death in connection with American occupation of equatorial Pacific islands as potential air bases occurred today aboard the coast guard cutter Taney. Carl Kahelewai, 21 years old, one of a group sent from Hawaii to colonize Howland, Baker, and Jarvis islands, died of peritonitis as the cutter was bearing him to Honolulu for an appendicitis operation. Answering a radio call for medical aid the cutter left Honolulu Oct. 4 with two physicians for the 1,310 mile run to Jarvis Island.

THERE'S NO POINT IN LETTING NERVES GET FRAYED!

COCKER SPANIEL

Spanyell family dates back to 1386. Cocker is smallest of family. A very popular pure-bred dog in U. S. Standard colors range from solid blacks, reds, to shades of cream; liver red and combinations. Versatile in the field, can be trained into desirable retriever. Great lover of human family.

HE'S GIVING HIS NERVES A REST

AND SO IS HE

HAVE you noticed how a dog, in the midst of play, suddenly stops and rests? His nerve system—as complicated and high-strung as our own—has signalled that it's time to relax! Man, unfortunately, is less sensitive to the warnings of his nerves. Though nerves may need a restful pause, we are inclined to press on in our absorbing tasks—relentlessly—forgetful of mounting nerve strain. When we find ourselves tense, irritable, upset, we may not even realize why. Don't let tension tie your nerves in a knot. Make it your pleasant rule to break nerve tension often through the day—TO LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL! Feel how gratefully nerves welcome the mellow intermission that your nearby package of Camels suggests. And not only do smokers find Camel's costlier tobaccos soothing to the nerves—but milder, too—ripe-rich in flavor—completely enjoyable from every angle!

FLAGSHIP PILOT, Captain Walter J. Hunter of American Airlines, speaks for his profession when he says: "Ragged nerves and flying don't mix. "RUSH ASSIGNMENTS, deadlines, phone calls would wreck my nerves," says New York newspaper woman Estelle Karon, "if I didn't pause frequently. I let up often and light up a Camel. Camels soothe my nerves. I work better—get more fun."

—that the grower of tobacco also cures it—in many cases, in barns equipped with metal flues that apply heat without smoke? That the planter works day and night until the curing process is completed? The selection of Camel's tobaccos requires the services of men familiar with every phase of growing, curing, and aging choice tobacco. # 31 SMOKE LAW VIOLATORS FACE HEARING TODAY

Warn Building Owners Nuisance Must End.

Thirty-one cases of smoke law violations will be heard today in the city hall by Frank A. Chambers, head of the department of smoke inspection and abatement. Some of the largest buildings in downtown Chicago are involved. Owners or operators failing to appear will be forced to answer the charges in court.

"The downtown section has always been the dirtiest spot in the city," Chambers said. "The smoke nuisance there is more troublesome than in the large industrial areas.

"Previously we have been handicaped in the autumn smoke abatement campaign by a lack of funds. But this year we were able to hire the largest staf in our history and we intend to enforce the ordinance. It applies to operators of big buildings as well as to owners of small homes."

Buildings cited for committing a smoke nuisance include:

Burnham, 160 North La Salle street; Hotel Sherman, 114 West Randolph street; Boston store, State and Madison streets; Carders restaurant, 118 North Dearborn street; Harvester, 180 North Michigan avenue; Kimball, 306 South Wabash avenue; Albert H. Wetten & Co., 434 South Wabash avenue.

Medical and Dental, 185 North Wabash avenue; S. W. Strauss company, 203 North Wabash avenue; Northern Trust company, 19 South Wabash avenue; Chicago Motor club, 66 East South Water street; Carbide and Carbon, 230 North Michigan avenue; Varty & Co., 127 North Dearborn street; Builders, 228 North La Salle street; State and Lake, 190 North State street, and the 333 North Michigan building.

Within a few weeks the smoke abatement department will start a survey of the causes and effects of air pollution.

Traction Merger Financial Plan

Upper drawings represent the present financial setups of the Chicago Surface Lines and of the Chicago Rapid Transit (elevated) Lines. Arrows point (below) to classes and amounts of new securities which would be exchanged for existing stocks and bonds. The plan was devised by Walter A. Shaw, traction adviser to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. The financial plan also includes the sale of new bonds to provide 45 million dollars of new money.

Seek Conference

Representatives of securities holders of the Chicago Surface Lines companies will ask Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today for a postponement of formal hearing on the Shaw plan for merging the system with the elevated railways. They will ask that conferences be held to see if an agreed merger plan can be worked out. Hearing on the plan is scheduled today.

The plan, drawn by Walter A. Shaw, traction adviser to Judge Wilkerson, would give surface lines security holders $123,000,000 in stocks and bonds of a merged corporation. Their present holdings have a face value of $142,000,000. Holders of the present elevated securities [face value $91,000,000] would receive preferred stocks to the amount of $35,000,000.

Both groups have requested higher percentagees of the full values. Shaw has estimated that a combined company would have a value of $240,000,000, but many millions of new capital would have to be expended to make the needed improvements.

Mayor Kelly said last night in New York that for the last two days he has been unable to contact Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes for a decision on Chicago's application for a 14 million dollar PWA grant for subway construction. Ickes left the capital yesterday afternoon, bound for St. Louis and a western tour.

SOUTH SIDE HOME LOOTED.

Clothing, silverware, and linen valued at $250 were stolen over the week-end from the apartment of William J. Sine, 5314 Kenwood avenue, a department store employé.

Operation on 6 Pound Boy 1 Hour After Birth Fails

Welch, W. Va., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Efforts to save the life of a six pound baby boy by an operation within an hour after birth to replace the child's internal organs proved futile today. The child, born yesterday to Magistrate J. E. Morgan and Mrs. Morgan at nearby Hanover, died early today 11 hours after the operation.

RETURN ROBBER OF HANDBOOKS TO FACE CHARGES

George Brown, 39 years old, paroled convict and former member of a gang of robbers who preyed on handbook resorts, was locked up last night in the detective bureau. He was arrested in Bemidji, Minn., and was brought back by Detectives Jack Hanrahan and Andrew Bazarek.

Brown's robber companions were Charles Lane, James [Screwball] Gilfoy, and William Wright. He left them on Aug. 23 to visit his sister, Mrs. Archie Grindells of Bemidji, a school teacher. On Sept. 22 the other members of the gang invaded a handbook at 3633 North Halsted street.

In the battle that followed Gilfoy and John Bazula, the resort owner, were killed. Miss Lucille Summerfield was fatally injured and Lane and two policemen, Otto List and James V. O'Malley, were wounded.

Brown said he quit his robbery career because he had been told the "gambling syndicate" had set its own men on the trail of bandits.

PILLARS OF THE NEW DEAL.

We have just had a preview of Mr. Orr's cartoon for today's paper. We expect to receive a great many letters complaining about it. They will accuse Mr. Orr of unfairness. The writers will say that they and many other good people still believe in the New Deal and from that fact they will conclude that the New Deal is not supported by crime, corruption, and communism as the cartoon charges.

To argue that way is like saying that the Cubs didn't lose the series because a great many people believed they wouldn't. The box scores tell a different story. Likewise the record proves that in spite of the high regard which some good people have for the New Deal it is supported by crime, corruption, and communism.

* * *

In New York the general agent for the New Deal was and is Jimmy Hines. The evidence produced at his trial showed that he was the protector of rackets who took his share of the profits from the most notorious of New York's racketeers, Dutch Schultz. Ferdinand Pecora, the New Deal judge who presided over the trial, stopped it before the jury could render a verdict, thus saving Hines and the New Deal from judgment until after the election in November. In a previous trial Dewey had convicted Lucky Luciano as boss of a prostitution ring. At the 1932 national convention which nominated Roosevelt, Luciano roomed with Albert Marinelli, another notorious gangster. Luciano is in the penitentiary, but Marinelli and Hines were delegates to the Democratic convention that renominated Lehman and Wagner.

In Minnesota two editors who were seeking to expose the political alliances of the criminals and racketeers who infest Minneapolis and St. Paul were murdered. The state machine, which is one of the most loyal of New Deal organizations, has caused these murders to go unpunished. Vice and crime continue to flourish under this protection.

In Indiana the boss of the New Deal machine is Paul McNutt, elevated to the post of governor of the Philippines by the New Deal. McNutt is the man who as governor of Indiana turned Dillinger loose in spite of his record as an incorrigible. With the help of Indiana police Dillinger was shot dead on the streets of Chicago though he could have been taken alive. The suspicion persists that he was killed to prevent him from telling what he knew about the political big-shots of his state, the favorites of the New Deal.

If space permitted these illustrations could be continued for half a column. Suffice it to say that the alliance of crime and politics is an old story in many states and localities, but in the past national administrations have not given it their blessing. Such men as Len Small were not singled out for preferred treatment in Washington. Today Hines is such a favorite. So are McNutt and his satellite, Minton. In Minnesota, on pressure from the White House, the regularly nominated candidates of the Democratic party in 1936 were obliged to withdraw from the race in favor of the nominees of the organization which was allied with crime.

The support which the New Deal receives from corruption is equally plain. In Pennsylvania Gov. Earle, the New Deal governor, when caught admitted accepting a loan of $26,000 from a contractor who received millions of dollars' worth of business from the state. The governor tried to block a grand jury investigation of the corruption in his administration. Next he tried to place his own man in charge of the grand jury. When that effort failed he thought to gain some advantage by having a hand picked legislative committee inquire into the charges against him and his associates, but he only succeeded in placing before the public an appalling story of political corruption.

In Louisiana the New Deal had a political enemy in Huey Long, whose offense lay in outdealing the New Deal. The federal department of justice indicted some of Long's lieutenants for income tax frauds, but after Long was killed and his former henchmen had become loyal members of the New Deal machine the charges were dropped. The inference was unmistakable. The indictments were obtained for purposes of political blackmail; with Long out of the way the New Deal found it easy to accept in its inner circle the same men whom it had formerly accused of defrauding the government.

In Rhode Island the New Deal administration called out the militia to gain control of the gambling concession and the patronage of the Narragansett race track. In Evansville, Ind., the New Deal is the beneficiary of notorious vote frauds. In New Albany in the same state, the home town of Senator Minton, one of his political associates, a deputy county treasurer, killed himself a few weeks ago and his accounts appear to be short by something like $100,000. The widow says the money must have been split several ways. Much of it appears to have been lost in playing the races at a gambling resort in the shadow of the local police station and courthouse.

The corruption in WPA would require a volume to relate. Suffice it to say that just before national elections, whether times are getting better or getting worse, the number of WPA beneficiaries climbs. Shortly before the primaries this year the WPA handouts in a number of critical states were increased in amount as well as in number. Senator Barkley, the New Deal leader in the senate, defeated an effort to end this wholesale corruption and actually defended it in a speech which the curious can find in the Congressional Record.

Dr. Arthur Morgan, who blocked New Deal Senator Berry's effort to cheat the government with his fraudulent marble claims, was fired by Mr. Roosevelt. To buy an election in Florida the New Deal squandered millions of dollars in starting construction of a ship canal, a project so useless except as a vote buyer that congress stopped it after the election. To buy votes in Maine the New Deal approved the outrageous Passamaquoddy scheme which congress also put to sleep. Votes in half a dozen western states have been bought and paid for and are still being bought and paid for with a silver purchase scheme which not even the administration's own treasury officials try to defend.

Corruption has become a habit in Washington. The government's own books and accounts, which formerly were a model of clarity and financial rectitude, are now set up to conceal the truth. Social security reserves are squandered; the TVA is encouraged to misrepresent its costs; each year sees a promise to balance the budget next year and each year sees a larger deficit than the year before. Farmers get their checks just before election. Public works are distributed in a spirit of bribery. There has been no corruption comparable to this in the history of government; and this far we know only a little of the whole story. The era of thorough investigation has yet to come.

As for communism, the facts are all too clear. Earl Browder, head man of the communist party, is a loyal supporter of the New Deal. So, too, is substantially every other leader of the revolutionary left. Mr. Roosevelt made no effort to purge his party of these elements. On the contrary, he sought to drive out the Democrats who believe in the republican form of government, freedom of enterprise, and the other human liberties. Increasingly the New Deal must depend on its leftists and communists.

The communists dominate the C. I. O., which subscribed half a million dollars of coal miners' money to the Roosevelt campaign fund. John Lewis, boss of the C. I. O., went to Mexico to say kind words to the government there which has seized the private property of Americans according to the communist formula of revolution. Thanks to Mr. Lewis' intervention, the men who were thrown out of his automobile workers' union as communists have now been restored to positions of power in the organization.

* * *

Without the support which comes to the New Deal from such criminal elements as are found at work in New York, Indiana, and Minnesota; without the support which comes from corruption in Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Louisiana, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, and many other states; without the wholesale corruption of silver purchases; without the corruption of WPA, which reaches into all the states; without the support of communists in the labor movement, the New Deal would have no chance to survive.

Mr. Orr's cartoon tells the simple truth. The pillars which support the New Deal can properly be labeled Crime, Corruption, and Communism.

EDUCATION IN PERIL.

Dr. Karl Compton is president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His speech at the dedication of the Abbott research laboratory in North Chicago a few days ago provided another reminder to the country of the peril in which private educational institutions find themselves today as a result of recent trends in government. High taxes are drying up the source of gifts and endowments. Low interest rates are reducing the income available from existing endowments. The same thought was expressed a short time ago in an address in New York by the Rev. Dr. Ralph Cooper Hutchison, president of Washington and Jefferson college.

Both men, looking ahead, foresee increasing dependence of education and research upon government funds. Dr. Hutchison predicted that if the present trend continues there will not be an independent college in the United States in another fifty years. The German universities, like the Russian and Italian, were state supported, he reminded his audience. They were therefore easily captured by régimes which hate and fear freedom of inquiry.

As a man acquainted with the ways of government, Dr. Compton foresaw the distribution of appropriations for research on pork barrel principles. If that danger were avoided the money would probably be parceled out on some formula which would result in treating the competent and the incompetent on terms of equality.

These men know what they are talking about. Unless the present policies of government are reversed the private educational institutions are doomed. The resultant loss to research and education will be irreparable. It will not minimize the loss to know that the trend in government which destroyed freedom of inquiry was to no small extent the product of the wishful thinking, shortness of vision, and loose talk of a good many of the professors in the endowed institutions.

FLOOD OF "FRANKS."

[Bloomington Daily Pantagraph.]

If you see letter carriers bending under weight of their loads for the next few weeks, you will know that they are carrying extra burdens on account of the congressional elections which occur next month.

Every member of congress who made a speech, or inserted in the Congressional Record any speech made by a friend, is now sending out from Washington thousands of copies of these speeches to the voters of his own state or district.

Good campaign stuff, and its costs are mainly footed by the United States treasury, that is, the taxpayer. The member pays no postage.

It is said that 750,000 pieces of franked material go into the postoffices at this season, just before election.

The members of congress pay a nominal charge for reprints of the speeches from the Record. Each member's own secretary is supposed to fold and mail these reprints. Some of the addressing is done by extra clerks on the general pay roll.

Sometimes a batch of reprints are sent to a postmaster, with a hint from his member of congress that he better get one into the hands of each voter of his community—or else. Rural mail boxes are seen bulging with this influx of material directed to the farmers and their families. It's a great system.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

OLD HEROES OF THE COLUMN.

Add Jin-Jin's stirring of old Line o' Type memories: Dick Little's diggings in the Virginia hotel [about 1923]—a murky afternoon, and the kettle sizzling on an electric plate. MacKinlay Kantor pecking away at Dick's typewriter. . . . That ribald Snowshoe Al telling tall tales of the Klondike. . . . Helen Henna, Don Farran, the Phantom Lover, La Mousquetaire, the Misogynist, part of the audience. Dick comes in, a sheaf of "contribs" in his voluminous pocket. . . . Lun Dee, Dorothy Dow, Steamer among 'em. Always, too, Marjorie F. W. They laughed loudly there on the top of Parnassus. Now, it seems, they sleep in the vale below. That Fella Down in Streator.

* * *

"The Gemini" recalled a good list of old timers, but they forgot a couple of important ones. There was the constantly amusing Duke Bakrak [wonder what became of him?], and who could ever forget the poignantly lovely verse of Colorado Pete? [He died in a sanitarium in the southwest, I believe.] Marjorie F. W. has been singing delightful poems these many years, and still is, thanks be! Lass o' Laughter.

* * *

Add nominations for delegates to the Line oldtimers' roundup: Misogynist, Chicago Blues, Snowshoe Al, Sally [Thally], Jawhawker, Duke Bakrak, and Friar Tuck. Arvilena.

It Can Be Overdone.

Don't you know the charm of fanciful names? It seems as though, with your disposition, you should. Don't you remember some of the charming, fantastic, beautiful, funny, quaint, queer, characteristic incogs which flourished under your several predecessors of the Line. The names were very much a part of the delight of the items.

Miss Morleena Kenwigs.

[Note by Linemaster: The undoubtedly fair Morleena is dreaming, perhaps, of Snowshoe Al, the King of the Black Isles, the Goswogii, and other mythological creatures of a past generation; but if she will be patient we will flush some new marvels out of the modern jungle.]

ON THE MARSH.

Evening is a slender miss
Walking on the marsh,
Like the heron, slim and graceful,
In the grasses harsh.

Evening is a white-limbed girl
Stooped among the reeds,
Plaiting rushes green and amber
Where the heron feeds.

Evening is a lissome maid
Glimpsed through quivering sedge
Unashamed to bathe alone
At the marsh's edge.

Evening is a girl's white shape
Glimmering like a star,
Mirrored in the plashy ways
With her blue stone jar.

Why Policemen Need Interpreters.

A plainclothes man ["dick" to you, maybe] told it to the judge in a robbery case as follows:

"Your honor, I was strolling up Halsted street when I spots this gee acting queer. I got the frame in a doorway and cased him for a spell, because I knew there was a wrong weed in the garden. All of a sudden he walked to a short parked at the curb and he pushes his sandwich grabber through the window. The next thing I knew he was lamming up the sidewalk with a keester under his wing. I takes after him, and he makes me and dashes in an alley. I pull the heat and give him the office that if he don't stop it's curtains. He put on the brakes and throws his arms toward the ceiling. I put the frisk on him and finds he is packing a .45 under the wing. I then make him open the keester and find it's loaded with thimbles. The hood has got a sheet and wants to give a half a yard for a pass, but I'm not on the clout so I house him."

Glossary: "keester" is a suitcase; "thimbles" are watches; a "short" is an automobile; "heat" equals a revolver; "sheet" is a police record; a "half yard" is $50; "on the clout" stands for bribable; and "to house" means to put in jail.

Don't Care Girls.

Tallulah Bankhead reminds "A Looper" of Eva Tanguay, who shouted "I Don't Care" in every vaudeville theater in the country some twenty-five years ago or more. The title of Tallulah's present play, "I Am Different," strengthens the analogy.

Rare Item for Gourmets.

You can find rosebud soup on the catalog of the Swedish cuisine. It is served as a dessert. The fag-ends [ovules] of withered roses, which contain certain flavored nubbins, are boiled with various other ingredients. Any Swedish restaurant in Chicago can supply it, to order; and browsers on Scandinavian eatables claim that it is delicious.

A LIFE LINE OR TWO.

FIGHTING SYPHILIS OF THE BRAIN WITH FEVER.

THE drive against syphilis—inaugurated by a campaign of publicity which tore the veil of secrecy from the disease—already has achieved significant and far reaching results. An aroused public is demanding its extermination and before long we may look forward confidently to a reduction in the number of victims who find themselves patients in hospitals for the mentally ill.

We cannot gainsay the fact that a fair percentage of those who contract the affliction—and who remain untreated or who are poorly treated—face both physical and mental decay. Not only will the circulation and the several organs of the body become involved, but the nervous tissue and the brain may break down.

For the last several years a serious attempt has been made to save many of those in whom the disease has affected the mind. At first thought to be hopeless, it was noted that should one of these individuals suffer an infection—accompanied by a high temperature—there ensued occasionally a marked improvement in mental symptoms. In other words, fever seemed to clear the brain.

This was perceived first in connection with malaria, although it was learned later that a high temperature from almost any cause would accomplish the same effects. In other words, there was nothing specific in malaria itself that acted as a neutralizer of the toxin of syphilis. Then followed some experiments in which an elevated thermometer reading was brought on by heating the body with water, air, or by some electrical means; inducing an artificial temperature.

While this plan has not been universally successful, nevertheless it has salvaged a reasonable quota of those who were considered incurable. As with most new healing measures—more was claimed at the beginning than was justified and time has shown that certain persons will fail to be influenced by this therapy. It is now clear, however, that this process plus the use of special preparations of arsenic [tryparsamide] will bring recovery in about one-third of these who have previously been doomed to spend their days in state hospitals.

We are accustomed, perhaps, to look on syphilis of the nervous system as something which may develop late in life. Unfortunately, this is not true. Cases have been seen among youths of 17. In fact, if the disease is identified about the age of 35 or 40, the response is more favorable.

In a recent report, 104 consecutive cases presenting mental symptoms—the aftermath of syphilis—were treated with both fever and drugs. A program was laid out which covered approximately two years and—for the purpose—malaria organisms were employed with younger patients who were in good physical condition. They were permitted to have from eight to twelve chills with a temperature ranging from 104 to 105 degrees Fahrenheit. In those to whom the treatments were given at weekly intervals the doses varied from ten to thirty and the range oscillated between 104 and 106 degrees Fahrenheit, where it was held for from four to six hours.

A study of this carefully controled series appears to justify the procedure completely. All told, mental manifestations were relieved in 38 per cent of the 104 cases. In other words, a moderate proportion were discharged as competent and apparently free from the causative disease. Those above 50 years of age were not helped appreciably.

It should be pointed out that this intensive, rigorous management is not without danger. But the risk scarcely can be urged as an adequate reason either to delay or forgo it inasmuch as these individuals continue to deteriorate until death from the original disorder or some intercurrent infection draws the curtain upon life.

But what a blessing will come to humanity when prevention of this dreadful ailment will preclude the necessity of resorting to such heroic methods.

DISCUSSED OCT. 4.

D. B. writes: What is the cause of convulsions in children? What is the treatment?

An article on this subject appeared Oct. 4, 1938. If the child is under 2 years of age, an infection accompanied by a high fever is the common cause. In older youngsters, epilepsy should be thought of.

MASTER AND SERVANT.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a man employs a housekeeper is he responsible for her rash acts? This woman asked the landlord to do some repairs on the house her employer rented and when the landlord went there to see about the repairs she struck him in the eye and broke his glasses, which caused an injury to his eye. The only reason she had to do this is because he raised the rent on her employer. M. J.

If you are the injured party your chances of recovery seem good enough to warant a personal interview with an attorney. It seems probable that there was an altercation or other provocation which should be discussed. In 39 Corpus Juris 1285, it is stated: "The master who puts the servant in a place of trust or responsibility, or commits to him the management of his business or the care of his property, is justly held responsible when the servant, through lack of judgment or discretion, or from infirmity of temper, or under the influence of passion aroused by the circumstances and the occasion, goes beyond the strict line of his duty or authority and inflicts an unjustifiable injury on a third person." ### KEEP IT A BALANCE WHEEL.

Oak Park, Ill., Oct. 7.—The constitution practically makes the United States senate superior to the Supreme court, the President, the house of representatives, and all other departments—a sort of board of directors and balance wheel of the federal government. The senate should be nonpartisan, or the government becomes partisan. A large majority and small minority [seventy-six to twenty] resulted in a "rubber stamp" vote almost passing a Supreme court packing bill, and in making the government a huge political machine to keep the majority party in power.

The six year term of senators, and the election of one-third of the senate every two years, partly protects it from mob hysteria and political landslides, and also enables the voters to reduce the majority and increase the minority so as to keep the senate properly balanced. That is a job every two years for all voters who want the government to be strictly nonpartisan. M. D.

UNCLE SAM HOARDS BUTTER.

Chicago, Oct. 7. — Just read in THE TRIBUNE that the Dairy Products Marketing association has bought up 112 million pounds of butter with government money since June. This butter is being hoarded by the government to boost the price.

John Brandt, who heads this program, says it will be pursued "despite widespread lack of confidence in its success." Regardless of how high the price of butter is boosted by this government hoarding, the housewife must buy it or, Brandt says, the public debt must be paid with printing press money. Ha!

PRAISE FOR COUNTY HOSPITAL.

Chicago, Oct. 7. — I have read and heard a lot of criticism of the County hospital. I want to say I was taken there twice in the last six months and underwent two serious operations. I cannot express in words the gratitude I have for the wonderful doctors and nurses. My life depended on their work.

I have been in three different hospitals in this town in the last eight years and can truthfully say I had no better care than I had at the County. The food also was good. I cannot speak for the whole building, but ward 56 was fine.

MRS. ALLEN.

RELIEF VS. WPA.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—It is about time for an honest worker to protest against paying sales tax any longer to feed lazy bums who will not even try to work. In a case I know of personally, the husband prefers a relief check of $24 a month to feed five, to a WPA job paying $55 a month. The family has been without gas for a long time, as the relief check does not allow for it.

The wife would like to take work but is afraid to for fear of losing relief. Thus relief defeats its own purpose and is a handicap to independence.

A DISGUSTED CITIZEN.

THANKS A MILLION.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Thomas G. Harrington's letter about us tag day workers is gratifying. It was people like him that made it possible for us to smile in the rain. As they dropped their coins in our boxes they smiled "right back." Despite chilled fingers and wet feet, we came home with that grand feeling that we had helped those who could not help themselves [children].

MRS. MARTIN C. WRIGHT.

GERMANY'S FIVE YEAR RISE.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—In the last five years we have witnessed the phenomenal rise of Germany from a powerless and poor country to the mightiest in continental Europe with the possible exception of Russia. This rise has not had the enthusiastic approval of our country, especially not of our press. At the same time it is a fact that from a population of about 65 million the present Germany will have risen to about 80 million. Where five years ago she did not have a friend, she now has a number of them. Where at that time almost 7 million were out of work, she is now importing labor from Italy and some Balkan states. And she has done this without help from anybody; nobody loaned her a dollar. And yet today she has a large army with the most modern weapons and an air fleet second to none. Travelers say the whole country looks like a garden.

Those are plain facts which everybody knows. Whether we like it or not, Germany is on the way up.

ARTHUR KOEGEL.

A RAILWAY EMPLOYE WRITES.

Matteson, Ill., Oct. 7.—I am employed by the Illinois Central railroad as a day laborer and so am able to stay off the relief rolls. I receive 43 cents an hour and work forty hours a week. From my wages they deduct an average of $4 or $5 every two weeks for insurance, hospital dues, and the pension fund contributions.

Take 15 per cent off of what is left, and see what my wife, baby, and I have to live on for two weeks. We keep our bills paid, and we live, but we don't have a car, or other "extras."

If the railroads wish to economize, why don't they start at the top? Abolish some of the "white collar" jobs with their high salaries and expense accounts.

I wonder if these so-called "big shots" could live on a salary like mine?

W. E.

THE "JUNGLE STORIES."

Beloit, Wis., Oct. 6.—Let's have more Jungle Stories cartoons. They pack the biggest wallop and the greatest number of wallops against this hare-brained Roosevelt Utopia of any cartoon yet devised.

How about assembling all of them in book form so that we can purchase the book and present it to our grandchildren, thus showing them how their backs have been broken by this colossal tax debt?

R. M. FISHER.

Streator, Ill., Oct. 7. — Are the "Purge" cartoons by Orr to be published? If so, please let me know the date and price.

I neglected to clip them and would like to have a number of sets.

SAIDIE MURRAY.

OBJECTS TO BEAUTY SHOP CODE.

Wausau, Wis., Oct. 7.—The equipment in a beauty shop is as essential as a stove in the kitchen of a home. Would a housewife like to be deprived of her rights to use her stove? That is just what the Wisconsin price fixing beauty code, signed by the governor, has done to the beauty shop industry in our state. Price fixing has deprived the shops of their right to use their equipment to the fullest extent—thus depriving the owners of an income, the employés of jobs, and the public of services that are now regarded as essential!

Direct appeals to the state fair trade practice department and to the governor have been disregarded. May this appeal made to the people themselves influence the voters to elect state officials who oppose price fixing which restricts a business that has done its share of the tax paying of the community!

DONNA ESTABROOK.

ONLY A POOR BONDHOLDER.

New Hampton, Ia., Oct. 7.—Now that the North Shore electric line has resumed operations and is again paying wages and salaries to workers, the union is again to collect dues from its members, and the general public is to have the benefit of cheap and good transportation; and now that everybody is again enjoying the abundant life, what about doing something for the owners, whose money, invested in the North Shore railroad in the first place, has made possible all this happiness?

I am the holder of first mortgage bonds of this road and have received no interest or any return on my bonds since 1931. Have any of the workers, union, or public concerned in this road given any thought to my welfare, or how I am going to live? Please answer, or don't I count for anything?

B. A. BRIGADIER.

ANXIOUS FOR A "PEN PAL."

Greencastle, Ind., Oct. 7. — About a month and a half ago an article appeared in your column from a person in Argentina who wanted a "pen pal."

I wrote to this person what I thought was a very interesting letter and have not heard from him yet.

Now my curiosity has been thoroughly aroused about this odd hobby, so will you please publish the address of a friend-seeking college student?

BILL ARMSTRONG,
Delta Tau Delta, DePauw University.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—I am sending this letter requesting a pen friend to correspond with. I would be grateful to have one from Spain, Africa, or South America. It must be a boy.

NOTED ENGINEER FLAYS WASTEFUL SCHEMES OF PWA

As Well Build Pyramids, Says Dr. Riggs.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—The public works administration squanders government funds on grandiose projects of no more usefulness than the pyramids of Egypt. This charge was made today by Dr. Henry E. Riggs of Ann Arbor, Mich., president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, who is here for committee sessions preliminary to the society's fall meeting, opening on Wednesday.

Dr. Riggs, who is 73 years old, is a noted expert on property valuation, railroads, and public utilities. In an interview he condemned the general principle of profligate federal spending, and PWA in particular.

Dr. Riggs' ridicule of PWA expenditures centered on the Grand Coulee irrigation project, in the state of Washington. That gigantic $500,000,000 project, he said, is only one of "many that are grandiose, have no possibility of return, and add to the public debt on which interest must be paid by future generations."

Costs Far Above Land Value.

He asserted that the Grand Coulee cost will be about $400 an acre for lands benefiting from it while good land now sells for only $60 or $70 an acre, and there is no possibility of marketing Grand Coulee power for several generations, if at all.

Instead of such expensive projects as Grand Coulee, PWA would have done better to spread the same money throughout the nation for "the construction of useful things such as bridges, railroad grade separations on federal highways, sewers, and municipal improvements of other needed nature," Dr. Riggs said.

He inferred that the current federal administration was influenced by ambitions "to build the world's biggest engineering projects" instead of "being guided by long range and sound social-economic motives."

Names Wasteful Projects.

The ill-conceived Passamaquoddy tidal-power project in Maine, the $4,000,000 fish ladders on the Bonneville dam in Oregon, the great earth-filled dam at Fort Peck [where 8,000,000 cubic yards of fill recently slipped back into the reservoir] costing upwards of $100,000,000 were examples of attempts to build things that were "first or biggest in the world," Dr. Riggs said.

"It is up to the new generation to clean up the mess my generation has made," said Dr. Riggs. "I'm in hopes we'll get back to our old democratic nation and its principles of work and more work. I'm optimistic enough to hope that then, if we can restore normal industry, we'll solve a lot of our railroad and other economic problems. I cannot see any hope of reaching that goal through a continuance of federal spending."

Chicagoans of Norwegian, Danish, and Swedish descent combined yesterday to pay homage to the Viking explorer, Leif Eriksen, who is often credited with discovering North America in the year 1000.

The program included ceremonies at the replica of a Viking ship in Lincoln park and at the Eriksen monument in Humboldt park. A parade was held in the afternoon at Kedzie avenue and Logan square, with a torchlight parade and folk festival at night.

Sponsored by the Norwegian National league, Leif Eriksen day was proclaimed by Mayor Kelly and Gov. Horner. Programs will be held today in the public schools of Illinois.

7 Found Slain in Mystery Crime in Desert of Iraq

BAGDAD, Iraq, Oct. 9.—(AP)—A mysterious desert crime was reported tonight with the discovery of seven bodies on a lonely, sand swept road near the holy Moslem city of Nejaf. The bodies of two men who had been shot and stabbed to death were found in an automobile. In a freshly dug grave near by were five other bodies—those of an old woman, a young woman about to become a mother, a girl about 15 years old, and two other children. All had met violent death.

Nearly half the lawyers in the United States earn less than $2,000 a year, according to a survey published yesterday by the American Bar association. Less than 2 per cent of those in the profession have incomes of more than $15,000 a year.

The report was prepared by a special committee of the association, headed by Lloyd K. Garrison, dean of the University of Wisconsin law school. Mitchell Dawson of Chicago was a member of the committee.

The findings indicated that a large number of lawyers are unable to earn a living in practice and that many young lawyers cannot find openings. Low cost legal service bureaus would create more work for lawyers, the committee said.

Princetonian's Concert Draws Fellow Alumni

BY JUDITH CASS.

TO hear George Newton, Princeton, '22, in his first formal concert in the middle west, Princeton graduates living in Chicago and its environs will turn out en masse tomorrow night at the Art institute. Mr. Newton's audience will not be restricted to the Princetonians, however, for all who enjoy a bass will be there, and so will a number of people from Indianapolis, where Mr. Newton and his accompanist, Walter Whitworth, live.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Woollen, Mrs. Frederick Ayers, Mrs. V. C. Vanderbilt and her daughter, Miss Betty Vanderbilt; Mrs. Herman Wolff, and Mrs. Lafayette Page, mother of Mrs. Thomas Hart Fisher [Ruth Page], are among those coming from Indianapolis. The Woollens will have dinner with Mrs. Frederic W. Upham before the concert. Mrs. Upham left Saturday for Alderson, W. Va., to attend a meeting of the board of the Industrial Institution for Women. She and the Woollens will arrive in the same train tomorrow.

Mr. Newton, who is being presented by the Musical guild, is a bass. His program will include old English songs and selections from Schubert and Brahms. While at Princeton he was a member of the Triangle club. Cyrus H. Adams III. and Winston Elting sang in the glee club with him. Business will prevent the former from attending the concert tomorrow night, but those who have taken seats include two Triangle members of the same era, Edwin M. Ashcraft III. and Louis E. Tilden, and their wives. Others are Adlai E. Stevenson, the junior John P. Wilsons, William S. Warfield III., and the Charles H. Swifts.

Triangle Show Committee Pestered for the Date.

Mr. Adams, Arthur M. Wood, and Frederick H. Scott Jr., as the committee for the Triangle club's annual Chicago performance, are engaged in their usual four weeks' period of troubles concerning the date of the show. Until the club wires the exact date it will play here Messrs. Adams, Scott, and Wood are left to deal with theater bookings and anxious dinner-dance hosts as best they may. Naturally no one wants to give a debutante dinner-dance on the night of the Triangle because all of the young people want to see the show. Just as naturally, whoever is planning a ball for the night the Trianglers are in town—usually the biggest and gayest dance of the season—must wait until the exact date is announced before issuing invitations. On the other hand, those entertaining at dancing parties for debutante daughters want to be sure they are NOT entertaining on the night the club is here if they want to keep the party small.

The Civic Opera House has been engaged tentatively for the night of Dec. 27 for the Triangle club, and it is expected that the performance will be given that night or the 26th—unless the club decides to follow instead of precede the University of Pennsylvania's Masque and Wig troupe on the 28th.

Barbara Baker Engaged to Hunter Van R. Nicol.

Yesterday at a small cocktail party at her home in Evanston Mrs. Ethel Kirkman Baker announced the engagement of her elder daughter, Barbara, to Hunter Van Rensselaer Nicol, son of Mr. and Mrs. Killian V. R. Nicol of 1320 North State street. No date for the wedding is set.

Miss Baker, whose maternal great-grandparents were Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Monroe Kirkman, pioneer Evanstonians, received her preparatory school education in the east. Afterward she studied for two years in Thought for the week [from Marie Beynon Ray's new book, Two Lifetimes in One]:

"We are tired not by what we do, but by what we don't do, by all those neglected interests and excitements out in the world which we're missing. Relaxation, not rest, is what is needed. And relaxation means constructive activity. The cure for fatigue is increased activity, either in the form of work or play."

Contretemps.

The German restaurant at Diversey and Sheffield, Lincoln Turner hall, did a big business early last week because of the world series. One hour before the game last Tuesday they were all out of schwartzbrod, rye bread, and pumpernickel, Durand Smith discovered. All they had left was French bread.

Eunice Tietjens [Mrs. Cloyd Head] is back in town for a month's stay and the poets of the town gathered at the headquarters of Poetry Magazine in her honor. Her last work was her life story, World at My Shoulder. Now she is working on a long poem. . . . The prettiest flower combination of the autumn that everybody is sending is Sally roses [pink shading to yellow at the center] and deep red cockscomb, suggested by the feminine flower artist of the town. . . . ### Little Old Lady.

A little old lady with nose glasses was sitting next to Frank Burke enjoying the movie, but the rattle of paper from two girls sitting behind her eating a box of candy annoyed her. Turning slowly around she said in a low voice, "My goodness, girls, what are you doing, building a nest?"

A New Carmen Sings Well, but Is Cool, Honest

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Following are a few of the things which stick in the memory after the San Carlo Opera company's crowded week-end, in the course of which two French works and one Italian saw the stage of the Auditorium theater.

The first Chicago Carmen of Helen Olheim, American mezzo of the Metropolitan Opera company. It was vocally suave, but with little of the sultriness of tone and delivery that we associate with the rôle. And despite honest efforts to act and dance the part of the wanton little opportunist of the story, Miss Olheim remained throughout the opera the type of honest, respectable person to whom you would gladly entrust your watch.

The dignified Escamillo of Mario Valle, which boasted just enough swagger to be credible, but not enough to be annoying. The feat of Leola Turner, who in one day enacted the two most lovable ingénues of French opera, Marguerite in the Saturday afternoon "Faust," Micaela in the same evening's "Carmen."

The luminous tone quality which Rolf Gerard achieved in some of the more melting sequences of "Faust's" garden scene. Ivan Petroff's graceful and musically expert Valentine in the same performance.

The appearance of John Pane-Gasser [Aroldo Lindi is still sick] in last night's "Il Trovatore." The performance confirmed the impression gained earlier in the week—that Mr. Pane-Gasser has simplified his vocal style to the point where the impressive resonance of his natural voice can be directed toward high artistic ends. He has developed lighter tone qualities and greatly widened his expressive range.

Bianca Saroya's performance as Leonora last night—her first appearance this season. Histrionically it was quite in the Saroya manner, full of a natural nobility of motion and bearing. Vocally it lacked at several points the Saroya roundness and confidence.

Lyuba Senderowna's almost hysterical Azucena, which yet kept within the bounds of art and remained genuinly moving. Mostyn Thomas' virile Di Luna, which softened delectably in the more intoxicating reaches of his second act aria.

OPENS BEAUX ARTS SERIES

BY CECIL SMITH.

Mathilde Ernestine opened the third season of her Beaux Arts salon in the Medinah club yesterday afternoon with a joint recital by Wanda Corti, pianist, and Hal Runyan, cellist. Regular weekly recitals are promised every Sunday from now until next May.

Miss Corti plays the piano capably, cleanly and honestly. Her tone is firm and definite, without ever becoming merely heavy or ugly. Bravura passages do not seem to disturb her equilibrium, and her scales and runs come out evenly and rhythmically. On the interpretative side she reacts to her music about half way, giving indication that she would like to present lyrical passages more eloquently than she yet knows how, and that she would like to understand the total architecture of her pieces better than she yet does.

Mr. Runyan's playing is less communicative, largely because all sorts of technical deficiencies rise up to smite him just when he would most like to keep going. In simpler expressive passages yesterday he achieved many attractive inflections, though it looks as if oversentimentality might prove to be his bête noir.

Good Morning!

Well, now—this time I think the Ritz brothers really HAVE something. At any rate I, who usually fail to appreciate them, had a very good time at their party, "Straight, Place or Show."

Their new opus has the tang of the unusual, handing the boys some new gags, bringing in delightful Ethel Merman, singing a couple of catchy songs—"Why Not String Along With Me?" and "With You on My Mind"—springing an interesting little romance between two likeable folks, Phyllis Brooks and Richard Arlen—glad to see you again, Richard!—and, in various ways, diverting the observer pleasantly—for not more than 75 minutes! Adding, you see, brevity to the list of assets.

The lads are running a pony ring for youngsters when you meet them. In unique manner they acquire Playboy, a racer which had brought them bacon on a sweet day of yore when they'd played him on a long shot.

Playboy since that time has fallen back among the also rans. . . . It takes the Ritzes to discover that he's really a champion steeple chaser instead of a racer . . .

Into their lives comes Barbara Drake, original owner of the horse. . . . She's lost him on a bet with her fiancé, who resents the time she spends on him . . .

The entering of Playboy in a steeple chase; the unforeseen occasion which makes jockies of the Ritzes and Denny, and the manner in which alienated sweethearts are brought together again are depicted in fast, amusing fashion. Certainly the Ritz brothers have never been funnier.

My compliments to the other players and the director. The dialog, I prophesy, will bring many a smile to your lips.

See you tomorrow.

Chicago Pair Wins Title in Bridge Tournament

Albert Weiss and Arthur Glatt of Chicago were the winners last night of the All-American pair championship of the American Contract Bridge league. The playoff was held in Hotel La Salle. Second place went to another Chicago pair, Ralph Kempner and Walter L. Jacobs. Dr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Hunt of Indianapolis were third. Weiss, Glatt, Kempner, and Jacobs won the team of four competition. Weiss was also high in the scoring for the individual masters' championship.

Bagdad-on-the-Pacific

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 9.—The stars' building at M.-G.-M. is a two story structure, divided into eight suites for heroines, eight suites for heroes. On the first floor Luise Rainer occupies A, Jeanette MacDonald occupies B, there is no tenant in C, Norma Shearer is in D. On the second floor Garbo is assigned to E, Myrna Loy is in F, Margaret Sullavan in G, Joan Crawford in H. Probably no building in the history of the world ever housed such an internationally famous group of femmes. The mortar that holds together the stones is a compound of talent, ambition, and heartaches and Lady Luck held the trowel. The tenants come from such diverse places as Vienna, Philadelphia, Toronto, Stockholm, Butte, Mont.; Norfolk, and Kansas City. Without exception they all came from families that were poor or in moderate circumstances. Not one of them is a college graduate.

Bette Davis' escort currently is William Wyler, who directed her "Jezebel." . . . Burgess Meredith and Joan Castle a random item. . . . Edgar Bergen, hop-scotch Romeo, is squiring Evelyn Walsh this week. . . . Harry K. Thaw in town and giving parties at Phil Selznick's [those Pittsburghers stick together]. . . . The Jimmy Cagneys will adopt a baby. . . . Donald Budge would like to know Loretta Young better, proving that athletes are smart. . . . Robert Riskin prefers brunettes—first it was Oberon. Even his hoss, Dogaway, is on the brunette side. . . . The Vernon Whiteheads [she's Anita Louise's maw] expect Sir Stork. Ditto the Burton Lanes and the Anson Weeks. Lane panned "Says My Heart." . . . Walter Pidgeon's dove is Carol Parker. . . . Who is dumping those big blocks of 20th Century-Fox on the rising market?

Prediction: Academy award for best picture of the year will go to "You Can't Take It with You." Academy award for Best Actor will go to Lionel Barrymore, unless Paul Muni overhauls him in "Juarez." Academy award for Best Actress will go to Bette Davis or Norma Shearer. Myrna Loy, Alice Faye, and Priscilla Lane gave performances of academy caliber, but I doubt that they will stand much chance against Bette or Norma.

June Lang's contract was voided because she didn't wire the studio for an okay to leave London. . . . Phyllis Brooks and Cary Grant have set the date. . . . Bogart Pretlow is in from Broadway and romancing with Irma Wilson. . . . Twentieth Century-Fox has saved $25,000 a week by reducing its stock company, which is a saving of a million per year. . . . In the "Nancy Drew" series, Bonita Granville says: "I'll bet you $23.80." That is the exact amount of a WPA check and it has replaced the "I'll betcha million dollars" brag in high schools. . . . Dionne quints' shoes are being mailed from Canada for Grauman Chinese imprints. . . . Cliff Edwards and Agnes Frazier are a combination. . . . Order for the Harry Ritz baby has been canceled. . . . Chap with Venita Fardon [Mrs. Jack Oakie] is tagged Roos.

Make a small bet [or a large one] that Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone will patch things up. . . . Glenda Farrell and Van Smith are still at it. . . . The attachment between Charlie Lederer and Geraldine Fitzpatrick has lasted a fortnight.

Hollywood believes the jitterbug craze is ending. Paramount nixed a Fanny Goodman starrer. . . . Business in the gaming spots is so bad that they're holding the croupiers for ransom. . . . Hollywood critics, in their monthly poll, have selected these as the outstanding pictures of the current year: "Jezebel," "Robin Hood," "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Algiers," "Marie Antoinette," and "You Can't Take It With You." . . . RKO, in dropping fourteen players, abandoned Jack Oakie, Milton Berle, Ann Miller, Miriam Hopkins, and Mitzi Green. . . . All studios are coming around to the belief that stock companies are an expensive luxury. First one to suggest that was Nate Blumberg when he took the reins at Universal. At first the others hooted at him.

A Door Closed Softly

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright, 1938, By Alice Ormond Campbell.]

SYNOPSIS.

David Beddoes, young American, accompanies his cousin, Alison, to a party at Lady Wibbe's. By mistake they go to the house next door. While they are talking to the spinsterish woman who receives them they hear a woman scream and a body fall. The spinster explains it is a parrot. But young Penelope Wibbe says their strange neighbors have no parrot. While in the house David had seen a favorite book of his former love, Betsy Greentree, with her initials in it. Betsy's father died after losing his money. While traveling in Europe with her aunt, Fanny Rush, Betsy met and married an Englishman, Geoffrey Scarpath. David breakfasts next morning with Alison and her friend, Dr. Colin Ladbroke. Penelope calls to tell them their neighbors have acquired a parrot. David learns the Scarpaths live in the mysterious house and sends a letter there to Betsy, which is unanswered. David confronts Scarpath, who explains that Betsy is suffering from a chronic nervous condition and can have no visitors, that she is being taken care of by his sister. In the guise of a telephone repair man David gains a secret interview with Betsy and learns she did not receive his letter. She tells David her husband is not in love with her and she doesn't know why he married her. David arranges a scheme whereby they may communicate, with Penelope Wibbe's aid. Then Betsy's writing materials disappear.

INSTALMENT XIX.

THE DOCTOR'S VISIT.

Elizabeth felt slightly dashed. Now and again the doctor descended on them rather abruptly, so there was small excuse this time to be sensing—as she certainly did sense—a disturbing difference about today.

Her husband had moved to the window—the side one!—and was looking out and down. With purpose? Her heart stood stationary. He turned away. "Better view this end," he observed, at the back window now. "All heath—no vile architecture. As a matter of fact," he lit a cigaret and took a few quick puffs, "I was going to put it up to Broderick that fresh air might be indicated.".

"O, Geoffrey!" Her eyes shone. "Are you really suggesting he let me try a little walk?"

"A drive's likelier." He said it pointedly, flashing a glance at her eagerness. "Don't lose sight of your legs."

"I'm much steadier," she protested. "My headaches have stopped, and I don't get any swimmy feeling. I've been thinking that maybe with a little more to eat . . ."

"That's Broderick now." Her husband cocked his ear to the faint jangle of a bell. "Yes, I'll mention that, too." Tossing his quarter-smoked cigaret into the fire he strode from the room.

Her heart had begun its annoying flutter. Hope tangled itself up with gratitude—and pangs of conscience. She'd been wronging Geoffrey. He did want her well—though why not? Like this she was both an expense and a bore. A drive! Did that mean he still had his car? She had supposed, never asking, he had sold it.

She had flicked her powder puff over her face and smoothed the top sheet. Now she must brace herself . . . but no, the mounting steps had passed by to the front. Another door closed. So there was to be a private conference—doubtless over the outings and food. Rather a formal business. What were they saying, shut up in Geoffrey's room?

"I've got to know," she muttered, thinking of David's suggestions. "Just to make sure I'm not imagining things."

She slid to the floor.

In the dressing room she put her ear against the panels of a locked door, beyond which lay Geoffrey's domain.

Disappointment! She could hear almost nothing. Both speakers were rambling about in the restless habit they shared, and only when one drew near could his remarks become distinguishable. First she caught the word "Sunday," uttered by the doctor in repetition—so Geoffrey had already said it. Why Sunday! O, of course, the day proposed for her initial sally! Then Geoffrey had meant it. She hadn't felt sure . . .

"H'm . . . I should doubt it. How certain are you?"

The doctor again. Her husband's answer eluded, but quite distinctly she caught what followed: "I see. Not very conclusive. . . . All considered, I wanted to let a long period elapse. Safer . . . O, most decidedly! She's rather alarming, whether or not you realize it. . . . What's that?"

More argument, too distant to be captured, then with startling clarity, "Four days." What four days did Geoffrey mean? The listener counted back. It was just four days since David was here! But Geoffrey couldn't know. Why, he'd been all day at Newmarket!

O, if only she could make out the low, vehement insistence proceeding from the far end of the room! It had force, evidently, for the doctor was yielding—with a bad grace. Disagreeably he rasped:

"Right, but it's a risk, as I'm trying to warn you. We've just pulled her through a most frightening bout. If she goes under . . ."

"No!" The quick stride brought the word exploding at close range. "It shan't happen, do you hear? I'm in your hands. Let her die, and by God I'll . . ."

"Tut, tut!" testily. "Don't pin this on me—and don't forget I've something at stake, too. My reputation! Now, no more, we'll call it settled. Don't come, I'll go in alone."

Even in the panic of her rush back to bed Elizabeth was conscious of her quite ridiculous relief. All nonsense what she had been thinking. Geoffrey didn't want her to die.

"O, it's you, doctor!" Preparing her smile, she laid down the book only an instant before snatched up as camouflage. "Has my husband been asking you if it might be possible for me to . . . to . . ."

"To venture on a little airing?"

Bag under arm, Guthrie Broderick paused by the fire, warming his hands. As he turned his face in her direction she was struck forcibly, for the first time, by his oddly jaded appearance. Not strong, overworked—but that seemed inadequately to explain the purpled pouches under his eyes, the skin minutely puckered, like soft, ageing vellum. Now the eyes themselves were studying her—discerning, coldly scientific—and as always happened she felt she was being firmly put back in her place—that of an unreasonable, chronic invalid.

"O, yes!" he said cryptically and moved toward the bed. "Now then, let's just investigate this marvelous improvement I've been hearing about." He pinioned her wrist, sank wearily into a chair, and groped for his watch.

"Eating well, are you?"

"As well as I can," snapped Elizabeth, stiffened by her new audacity. "I could make a couple of nice lamb chops look pretty silly. Mightn't I have them instead of all these sloppy messes?"

He hardly attended, inserting the thermometer into her mouth and again glancing at his watch. His silence was the more ominous because it conveyed that his decision, whatever it was, had been already made.

"Well, well, perhaps—but not today. In fact," deliberately opening up his bag, "you're now in prime condition for another treatment. Just what we've been waiting for. That's welcome news, I expect?"

She warded him off. "Not another!" she cried. "O, no, no, I won't have it! That is . . ." She clutched at her dignity. "It can't, surely, be necessary, if I'm better without it?"

A moment before he had been suave. Now he straightened, exasperated. No yielding in those slaty-gray eyes, but instead the twitch of a muscle near the lips which marked the extreme limit of patience. Very resignedly he got out a small diary and turned the pages.

"Our date was Monday," he informed her. "Won't do to postpone. Dreading it, are you?" He bent forward, ill-humoredly expounding, as to a stupid, singularly fractious child. "And why? All it means is a little temporary discomfort, unavoidable, but must be borne for the sake of positive cure. Now, is there going to be a fuss, or will you take your dose like a sensible woman?"

Uppermost in her mind was the feeling of having been tricked. Childish or not, the notion stuck fast.

"I always feel horrible afterward," she muttered doggedly. "Last time—why, I've only just got over it! I'd rather be let alone."

Fat and Large Hips Both Are Unnecessary

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

One of the well known Hollywood masseurs, Jim Davies, who also directs the exercise and diet programs of many stars, says:

"Women don't have to get fat!

"Neither do they have to starve themselves to keep from getting fat. If they would just resist second helpings and get a decent amount of exercise each day, they never would be afraid of the scales."

If you are interested in keeping your own figure trim and neat, heed Mr. Davies' advice above and adopt the following suggested exercise if your hips are betraying your otherwise nice silhouette.

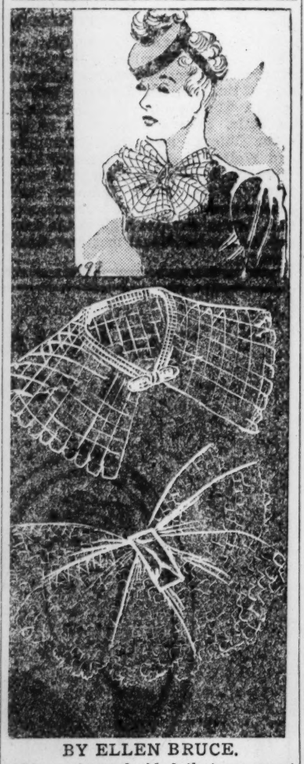
"Hips are the biggest problem," says Davies. "Heavy hips and derriere invariably go together.

"I insist upon massage for the screen lovelies," adds Davies, "and then tell the girls to roll on the floor night and morning with the head and heels elevated so that the torso does the work. You can see the hips and thighs a-slimming down pronto.

"Roll three times to one side and back, three times to the other side and back. Keep it up until tired. Results are highly satisfactory. Be sure to hold the arms across the chest with the hands tucked over the bosom for protection and hold the elbows in tight to the body. The fleshy part of the upper arms and the hips should take the roll.".

Of the midriff rolls, Davies says: "Better dietary and exercise habits discourage the balloon tire effect, but wonders can be done toward flattening the abdomen and keeping it that way by a few minutes' effort. Lie with the arms under the head and pull the abdomen in as far as you can toward the backbone. Then release it. Alternate 25, 50, 75 times, working up to 100."

Dainty Crochet Collar Enlivens Black Ensembles



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

If you have decided that you want a change from the all black ensemble, why not add a touch of snowy white in the form of a dainty crochet collar and jabot done in a lacy filet pattern? The filet stitch is one of the quickest and simplest. A couple of balls of fine white mercerised crochet cotton and a No. 10 steel crochet hook are all required. Any of the new blown glass animal clips may be used for a fastening.

For crochet instructions for the collar and jabot set, No. X-98, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Youngest Children Can Learn Tact if Carefully Taught

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

An excerpt from a letter from a thoughtful mother: "My husband is physically disabled and he is extremely nervous. So many little things the children do irritate him. To keep a pleasant atmosphere I never tell him of the many little unpleasant things that happen; and sometimes when he starts to correct the children and I know he doesn't understand just what they are doing I explain the situation to him.

"When the children wonder why he is so cross at times I tell them he doesn't feel well and they understand better than some grown people. And again I find if the children and their father are left alone they will work out their own problems and think more of all concerned when it is over. Sometimes their daddy says to me, 'They are my own boys' and they understand me better than you do."

I consider this a rare letter, rare because the mother is a person of rare wisdom.

Again and again do writers on child guidance [myself among them] dwell upon the importance of parents understanding their children. Rarely if ever do we mention the need of children understanding their parents. Under normal conditions and with younger children there is not much need of this—all that is essential is a measure of give and take.

But the grownups in a family are not always in a normal state of health or nerves. When such a condition is chronic, rare is the mother who copes with it as wisely as the writer of today's letter.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The high hairdress is certainly a controversial subject. Even if it weren't such a relief to see clean necklines and a variation from the old cocker spaniel effect of hair straggling down to the shoulders, it would be fun because people get so worked up about it.

In the town's smartest salons alert clients who've worn their hair up for months maintain that already it has become a "flivver fashion." It's too popular for their tastes and they're demanding something else. Our guess is that shorter hair eventually will be the next step. But for the moment the modified high hairdress is their choice—an effect of height in front, with neckline length and softness in the back. Artistically this is not a truly beautiful silhouette, but we must admit that it has practical features.

Then there is the hat problem. Pert little hats with feathers quivering like aspic salad, are all very well in the fashion illustrations, but what about Chicago wind? To say nothing of the approaching cold, which will nip exposed ears.

Another voice tells us that it's disorderly, this fashion of high piled hair. Slick after the hairdresser has "done" it, but untidy an hour later. Toting the much talked of "bear grease" or waving lotion to keep the back line sleek is, according to the objectors, more trouble than it's worth.

And every day we hear that it's impractical.

What do you think? Please, we'd like to know. And we'd like masculine as well as feminine opinions!

ELEANOR NANGLE.

Wild ducks have a strong "gamey" flavor which some persons do not care for, but which epicures prize highly. Many old cookbooks recommend soaking the fowl in salt solution to remove some of this gaminess, a practice which a lover of roast wild duck decries, and which now is frowned upon by all good cooks. Soaking doesn't remove just the wild flavor from the duck; it removes all flavor.

Wild duck should hang by the neck at least two days in a cool, dry place before it is cooked, experts will tell you. But it shouldn't hang until "high"; that is, until strong in flavor (even a little on the overripe side), which is said to be the way the English prefer it.

ROAST WILD DUCK.

Ducks should be plucked dry, singed, and separated from their entrails. Sprinkle the interiors with salt and pepper, and pop an onion or a small apple into each cavity, if you like. Sew or skewer the openings and place the ducks on a rack in an open roasting pan. Rub the breasts with oil, or lay strips of bacon across them. Roast uncovered in a 325 degree oven 30 minutes or longer, depending upon the size of the duck. Baste occasionally with drippings from the pan. Duck should be served rare to be at its best. Avoid overcooking. Serve with gravy made from the drippings or from the giblets which have been simmered in water until tender.

Onion or celery dressing is well liked with wild duck. Currant jelly and wild rice are good accompaniments. A dressing may be made from wild rice, if desired.

BROILED WILD DUCKS.

Young mallards and canvasbacks are excellent broiled. Pick dry, clean, and singe and wipe well with a dry or damp cloth. Do not wash, as to do so removes flavor. Rub with salt and pepper and then with melted butter or oil, or cover with slices of bacon. Truss open, and lay skin side down on a broiler rack. Broil in a moderately hot broiling oven for 15 to 20 minutes, turning once. Be careful to avoid overcooking. Serve on a hot platter with melted butter to which a little lemon juice and a tablespoonful of chopped parsley have been added.

A brand new booklet on cooking all kinds of wild game by the best methods for each type now is ready for distribution. It's called "How to Cook Wild Game," and is obtainable for 5 cents in stamps, by mail; 3 cents if it's picked up personally at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, or Tribune Tower lobby. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

Smart Frock for the Home

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOME FROCK.

These days house dresses must be every bit as chic as the frocks you wear on the street. For her rôle as chatelaine of a household, large or small, every woman needs at least one pretty frock, preferably more. The dress illustrated today is dainty, feminine, and yet practical. It will be comfortable to wear while you're busy.

The bodice is well fitted although it partakes somewhat of the fulness created by the waistline shirring. The latter is the source of the gentle yet graceful dirndl lines of the skirt. The elastic waistline is simple to make. Simply thread the bobbin of your machine with elastic thread and stitch in the usual way, six or more rows. The pattern explains everything in detail. The scalloped neckline may be bound, and the buttons should match in color. A print is effective in cotton, linen, or washable silk.

For the street use the same pattern for dark silk, woolen jersey, or velvet. Make a V neckline, trimmed only with a clip, and make the sleeves long. A smarter street dress you never owned.

Style No. 2716 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material and 1½ yards of binding.

Hat Feathers Add Allure to New Hair-do

BY RHEA SEEGER.

By this time we've all settled down to the unaccustomed necessity of taking time to dress, to the newness of fussing with our new hair-do, and a new manner of wearing clothes. These hats demand a rather unusual care to their stance. Pill boxes, turbans, and the skull caps are out, the toque is in, or, rather, out on the best headlines.

No matter how small the toque, it's a creation. No blundering fingers, no clumsy thinking and no unimaginative soul can deftly twist, fold and tie these supermixups. . . . It's like the painting of a miniature. Some romantic heart breakers, just unpacked, are called bustle hats. Made of lovely soft velvet, gracefully and graciously folded to smooth over the head at the extreme right side, they also boast a soft band at the back to hold them in position.

Right out of the pages of Godey's fashion book, they go with afternoon and dress parade clothes to perfection. You'll find all luxurious colors—plum, purple, mauve, old gold, old green and ruby.

Ostrich feathers are everywhere, pastels and brilliant plumage nod from all the dress parade affairs. They give height, assure a devastating allure with an upswept hair-do, and make the most of all your best features. Even the newly unpacked felt millinery designed for general daytime wear has an effective feminine appeal. Sharp angles have gone. Soft, down swooping baby brims, quills stuck into the tops in a flattering slant, softly tied bows of grosgrain ribbon or the chiffon felt itself do this trickery with newly neat but flirtatious smoothness. All the hats make the clothes these days.

Polish Catholic Union Dedicates New Home, Marks Anniversaries

With pomp and ceremony, three important events in the history of the Polish Roman Catholic Union of America were celebrated yesterday.

The three historic events are the 65th anniversary of the founding of the union; the 100th anniversary of the birth of the founder, who was pastor of the St. Stanislas Kostka Roman Catholic church, Noble street and Evergreen avenue; the dedication of a new building, at Noble and Cortez streets and Milwaukee avenue, to house the union.

The celebration opened with a parade through the northwest side to St. Stanislas Kostka church, where a solemn pontifical high mass was held. The new building was dedicated in the afternoon, and a public reception and banquet was held last night.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Just one week from today, Monday, Oct. 17, the second annual national self-rating bridge examination starts. This, I grant, is a ponderous title, but then the event itself is highly important! Last year thousands upon thousands of players who "rated themselves" by following the daily questions, and comparing their answers with mine that appeared the next day, found that they had been unduly complacent about their own bridge prowess. Many a husband, who for years had been lording it over his poor, downtrodden wife and bawling her out every time she made what he, in his wisdom, considered a bad bid, was brought down to earth with a resounding bang! Perhaps the examination started a lot of fights, but it cannot be denied that it settled an even greater number.

The same general form that was used last year will apply again this year. Certain provisions [which will be announced next Monday] have been simplified so that I confidently expect even greater public interest than in the first exam. I strongly advise every one who wants to improve his game, or who wants to know exactly how good or how bad he is, to keep a weather eye out for next Monday.

South, dealer.

The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 heart | Pass | 1 spade | Pass |
| 2 no trump | Pass | Pass | Pass |

Particular attention is called to North's pass in the above sequence. Thousands of readers probably will feel that North violated a cardinal principle of the Culbertson system, but they will be wrong. This is a situation that is confused with a similar, but far from identical, one. It is quite true that a two no trump bid when used as a jump takeout of an opening bid is an absolute force. But this does not apply in the above sequence. South's two no trump bid was not a jump takeout in anything like the true sense of the word. It was a jump rebid.

Consider the implications of the bidding. South starts with one heart and can have as little as two and a half honor tricks with a five card suit. North does not like hearts and can show his own suit without increasing the contract, hence is entitled to bid one spade. When this gets around to South, the latter knows nothing about North's hand, except that he has a spade suit. South himself, however, must show that he has considerably more strength than was indicated by his opening heart bid, and also that he has protection in diamonds and clubs. This he indicates with his two no trump jump rebid. Obviously this rebid, although showing a strong hand and, in that sense, being an urge for partner to bid again, cannot be a force. If South were strong enough to visualize nine tricks after the mere mention of the spade suit by North, his rebid should not be two no trump; it should be three no trump.

In this particular case, North had to strain himself somewhat in order to respond to the first bid. That being so, his pass to the urging, but not forcing, two no trump rebid is quite in order.

The Housewife

Women were stopping to look at a colorful display of something or other, so we stopped, too. Could those beautiful little rugs be for bathroom use? Yes, they are. Deep, fluffy, and soft as a rabbit, they are of French chenille.

They're made in eight colors, among them soft powder blue, rose cedar, light yellow, pink, and turquoise. Some measure 18x35 inches; others, 24x48. They are pre-washed and the colors are fast. So what more could you ask except that the prices be reasonable? And they are—very.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—A fumbled punt gave professional football in Cleveland a reprieve and the Rams a surprising 14 to 7 victory over the Chicago Bears in a National league battle today.

The punt, twisting out of Carl Brumbaugh's hands, in the third period, bounced into the waiting arms of Carl Littlefield, Ram full back, who scampered twenty-two yards for a touchdown to bolster hopes that this city will retain its franchise. It was the Rams' second straight victory.

Pass Scores for Rams.

An arching pass from Half Back Stan Pincura to End Jimmy Benton paved the way for the Rams' first touchdown in the opening period. After running back a punt to the Rams' 45 yard line, Pincura fired the pass on the next play. Benton leaped high into the air to spear the ball and when tackled, threw a pass to Jules Alfonse, who raced over the line. The play was good for fifty-five yards. Bob Snyder added the point.

The Bears' formidable line smashes which have brought three National league victories started to click in the second period, Bob Swisher, Sam Francis and Bert Johnson piling up yardage, but the attack bogged down when the Rams' goal line was in easy range.

Brumbaugh Loses Punt.

Johnny Drake returned the kickoff to start the second half about twenty yards to the Rams' 40 yard line. A line plunge made four yards, but two passes were incomplete and Snyder then punted. It was a twisting punt and slipped out of Brumbaugh's hands. Littlefield, who was charging in to make the tackle, picked up the bounding ball and crossed the line without having a hand laid upon him. Peterson's placement split the uprights and the Rams were in front, 14 to 0.

Joe Maniaci, former Fordham back field star, who was obtained by the Bears from Brooklyn last week, went into the lineup at this point, and, assisted by Johnson, ripped the Rams' line to ribbons.

Taking possession of the ball on their own 26 yard line, after an exchange of punts, the Bears marched seventy-four yards on a series of line plunges. Jack Manders cut through center for five yards, Johnson went around right end for eleven yards, Manders picked up three, and Nolting raced to a first down on the Rams' 38 yard line. Johnson and Maniaci alternated in toting the ball to the 6 yard line and Johnson then raced around end for a touchdown. Manders kicked the extra point.

Drops Pass to End Threat.

The Bears then started another drive through the line and reached the 19 yard line, but the threat ended when Johnson dropped a perfect pass from Corbett.

Ed Goddard intercepted two passes to halt Bear drives. On the last interception with only about three minutes to play, Goddard punted to the Bears' 35 yard line. Ray Buivid was thrown for a loss trying to pass and on the next attempt fumbled the ball, which was recovered by Art Lewis of the Rams. The game ended after the Rams had run off one play.

The Bears clicked off sixteen first downs to three for the Rams and gained 211 yards to 120 for Cleveland. The Chicagoans also completed 3 out of 17 passes, while the Rams were making good on only one of eight. The one pass, however, resulted in a touchdown. The defeat was the first of the season for the Bears and the victory was the Rams' second in five starts.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Oct. 9.—The largest crowd in Green Bay's history saw the usually sturdy Packer defense crumble before the fury of Detroit's superb running attack in a National Football league game today. Twenty-three thousand fans, who comfortably filled the modern little stadium, watched Detroit strike suddenly in the opening minutes of the game to take a three point lead, then smash over a touchdown at the start of the second half and wind up with another in the fourth quarter to triumph, 17 to 7.

After Regis Monahan, former Ohio State guard, had place kicked a field goal from the 36 yard line after the first exchange of punts, Detroit was never headed, although its notorious weakness on pass defense enabled Green Bay to rally with a touchdown in the last quarter and threaten once thereafter when the Lions possessed only a three point lead.

Isbell a Star, Nevertheless.

Cecil Isbell, of Purdue, who was a member of the Tribune's All-Star squad last August and who has won two games for Green Bay thus far this season, produced the Packers' only score when he climaxed a fifty-eight yard march with a twelve yard pass to Carl Mulleneaux, a rookie end from Utah State. Isbell led the Packers on a subsequent drive, but the threat died when Alex Wojciehowicz, rookie Lion center from Fordham, intercepted his pass.

Lloyd Cardwell of Nebraska and Bill Shepherd of Maryland, both of whom were members of Tribune All-Star teams, scored Detroit's two touchdowns. Shepherd sent the Lions into a ten point lead early in the third period when he terminated a sixty yard march by spinning inside Green Bay's right tackle for seven yards. He also added the extra point.

Score on Reverse Play.

Cardwell's score came on a twenty-five yard reverse outside the same tackle after Green Bay, backed down to the goal line in the final minutes of play, had gambled with a fourth down pass. It failed and Detroit took the ball on the 27 yard line. After Ace Gutowsky, veteran full back, had plunged for two yards, Cardwell, charged out, cut back and raced through the Packer secondary.

Although Detroit threw thirteen passes, it was its running game which brought its second victory of the season. Shepherd, Cardwell, Gutowsky, Vern Huffman, of Indiana, and

Yankees, Cubs Share Record 4 Game Pool

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The New York Yankees and Chicago Cubs sliced up the largest financial melon ever received by the players in a world series of four games today.

From a player pool of $434,094.66 the two pennant winners took as their share 70 per cent, or a total of $303,866.26. The Yankees, as winners, received 60 per cent of this latter total, or $182,319.76; the Cubs received $121,546.50.

After paying out cash gifts amounting to $3,500 to such associates as bat boys and clubhouse attendants, the Yankees had arranged to split their portion up into 30¾ shares. Thus Manager McCarthy, twenty-two players on the squad, the three coaches, the batting practice pitcher, and club trainer, each of whom was voted a full share, receive $5,815.28 each.

Only 26 Cub Shares.

Four other players or club officials receive half a share each, and Road Secretary Mark Roth was cut in for three-quarters of a share.

Each of the Cubs, who split their pot only twenty-six ways—twenty-five full shares and one cut up into portions—get $4,674.87 for taking four straight beatings from the Yankees, an all time record.

Previously the best pay per player for a four game series was the $5,593.17 the Yankees received for winning in 1927, and the $4,244.60 the Cubs took for losing in 1932. The all time record is $6,544 received by the Detroit Tigers in defeating the Cubs in six games in 1935. The former record for a loser's share was the $4,656.40 collected by the New York Giants for losing in six games in 1936.

Other Clubs Participate.

After the pennant winners had taken their cuts, each of the other first division clubs in both leagues was cut in for a share in the remainder of the players' pool. The Boston Red Sox and Pittsburgh Pirates, who finished second in the pennant races, each received $32,557.10 to divide among themselves. The third place finishers, the Cleveland Indians and New York Giants, took $21,704.73 each, and the fourth place Detroit Tigers and Cincinnati Reds each had $10,852.37 to split up.

The total gate for the four game series was $851,166, of which the office of the commissioner of baseball receives $127,674.90. The owners of the two pennant winning clubs and the two major leagues split $289,396.44 four ways.

Dizzy Dean (right), Cub pitcher, was one of the first to congratulate Ruffing, who pitched two of the four Yankee victories.

CHICAGO CALLS ON SIX PITCHERS IN FINAL GAME

Third Straight Title for New York.

Come Home Today

THE Cubs left New York late last night on the New York Central line and will arrive in Chicago at the La Salle street station at 2:10 o'clock this afternoon.

New York, Oct. 9.—The invincible Yankees, the prides of the American league, today paraded in the boisterous fashion to which they are accustomed to their third successive world baseball championship. The parade was held before 59,847, but the line of march was around a bewildered, helpless foe—Chicago's Cubs—who, except for one thrilling surge, never had a chance to satisfy their craving for one consoling victory instead of being battered down four times in a row. They suffered the fourth successive and final battering, 8 to 3.

The Yanks now can point with pride to more than a string of three world titles in as many seasons. Winning the big honor and the accompanying monetary rewards in the minimum of four games now can be termed a habit with them. They have done it four times. They tore the Pirates apart that way in 1927. They handled the Cardinals similarly in 1928 and in 1932 they needed only four days' work to wreck the team that passed out so quietly this afternoon.

Just Like the Old Days.

During the final today those of the Cubs who shared the 1932 series grief had a constant reminder of that happening. In the opener that year Charles [Red] Ruffing whipped them. He whipped them again today, and he's the same big red head who last Wednesday in Chicago started the American leaguers on their way to four straight. At least the Cubs hit him today in a way that kept them in the fight until the eighth inning, but as soon as they made their challenge on a homer by Ken O'Dea, the Yankees roared back with a four run rally in the same inning.

If there was a break in the game, it will have to be charged to Bill Jurges. He blundered on a grounder that should have retired the side in the second inning. The Yankee power revealed itself almost instantly and before Bill Lee could reach the third out, three runners zoomed over the plate. Lee, seemingly tired, remained for only one more inning of work, and then began a review of almost the entire Cub staf. Six of them had a hand in the decisive struggle, four of them in the unhappy eighth.

They Lack Sustained Power.

While the Cubs' attack was good enough in one spot to put them one run short of a tie for a few fleeting moments in the eighth, it had its customary weakness at other times. During the first seven innings they accumulated only five hits off Ruffing and none of these figured in the lone run they scored prior to the eighth, when O'Dea fired his homer into the seats after Phil Cavarretta had doubled. That early run was scored on two passes and an error by Joe Gordon. The Cubs opened each of four innings with a hit. Three of these runners failed to score.

The first of the string of pitchers to follow in Lee's wake was old Charley Root. He served three innings, yielding a run which Tom Henrich produced by pounding the ball into the stands in the sixth for a 4 to 1 Yankee lead. Charley dodged further distress in the same inning only because of a sensational catch that saw Frank Demaree crash against the concrete to capture what appeared to be a home run drive.

The Boys Go Crazy.

The eighth was a crazy session in which nine Yanks batted. Vance Page, who had appeared in the seventh, was knocked out. Larry French came in long enough to get Bill Dickey out of the way. Tex Carleton followed. He committed a pair of wild pitches, yielded a two base hit, and walked a pair. With the Cubs floundering helplessly, Gabby Hartnett called for another workman. It was Dizzy Dean. It wasn't a real spot for the big fellow's flair for showmanship. The game was gone and heroics could mean nothing. Hartnett merely wanted to check the uprising. Diz halted it all right but not until after Demaree and Marty had napped long enough to permit a fly to drop for a double on which the second pair of a bunch of four runs scored.

The Cubs opened the battle just as they did the three others—Hack, the leadoff man reached base, this time on a single which skipped past Ruffing's feet and into center. Herman fooled around on a few good and bad pitches, unable to decide between bunting or attempting his favorite—the hit and run. He did neither. He sent a tap to Gordon, forcing Hack at second and barely missing being doubled at first. Cavarretta peeled

HARTNETT SUMS IT UP IN: 'WE DIDN'T HAVE IT'

Jinx of Post Season Games Still Pursues Cubs.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 9.—The Cubs are the most spectacular home stretch drivers in baseball, but they ought to stay out of all post-season games—city or world series.

Long famous for fold ups in sugar games after the close of the regular season, the Cubs exceeded all previous flopperoos, in the sad series of engagements from which they have just barely escaped alive.

Aside from Dizzy Dean's heroic efforts in the second game, some fairly good pitching by Bill Lee and Clay Bryant, some offense flashes by Joe Marty, Stan Hack, and Phil Cavarretta, the Cubs did little that any team from the class D Evangeline league couldn't have done.

Each Player Gets $4,674.87.

Each of the Cubs who drew a full share of the player pot got $4,674.87 for stumbling through four games against the Yankees. This, perhaps, is looked upon as ample solace for the drubbing they took from the Yankees. It is a matter of some consolation that players on the Pirates, Giants and Reds can get their checks without a feeling of guilt or a charge of larceny.

Most thoroughly crushed and disillusioned of all the Cubs, of course, was Gabby Hartnett.

Gabby said he had a highly overrated team when the lads curled on their first road trip after his appointment as manager on July 20. But he got different ideas during the drive when combinations of skill and luck gave his team 21 victories in 25 games and the National league pennant. Also more acclaim than any Chicago team ever got.

Cubs Help 'Em Out.

The fact that the Cubs never were beaten by 20 runs or more during their four days' experience with the Yankees, is of no significance. The Yankees never really exerted themselves, except when it looked as if Dean might get away with a hero act. They might have had to bear down in the eighth today, but the Cubs took care of things for them.

If Joe McCarthy hated Gabby Hartnett, and had asked his boys to mutilate the Cubs as a matter of revenge, there is no telling what might have happened. But the homicide squad unquestionably would have had plenty of work.

A good team might have made a good series against the Yankees. The Cubs were merely disappointing before home crowds in the first games. Here they were pathetic.

Not a New Experience.

The experience of losing in a world series, is not a new one for the Cubs. The washout today was their 16th loss in their last 19 world series games. They won one out of five against the Athletics in 1929, lost four straight to the Yanks in 1932 and won two out of six from the Tigers in 1935.

The Yanks have won 24 of their last 27 world competitions, but we refuse to bring that up as an alibi for the 1938 Cubs.

Look What Happened!

The Yanks were ahead, 4 to 3 going into the home eighth; Page pitching. Henrich flied to Marty. Di Maggio singled to left and went to third on Gehrig's single to left. French replaced Page and made Dickey supply the second out with a pop to Jurges.

Then Carleton went in. His first pitch to Hoag was very wide but O'Dea managed to keep it from going to the screen. The next pitch was eight or ten feet wide of O'Dea's glove, Di Maggio scoring and Gehrig taking second. Hoag doubled, on the third pitch, scoring Gehrig. Hoag went to third on another wild pitch. Gordon and Ruffing walked, filling the bases. Dean, sixth Cub pitcher took over. Marty and Demaree let Crosetti's pop fly plunk behind them for a double, Hoag and Gordon scoring. Rolfe lined to Collins.

And, also, may we repeat the last play of the series:

"Herman tapped to Ruffing."

The Cub dressing room was not merry despite the $4,674.87 per man.

Manager Hartnett said: "We tried, but didn't have it."

When Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yankees was asked before today's game to reveal his pitcher for tomorrow, he asked pleasantly enough, "What in hell are you talking about?"

---

No more sporting crowds are to be found anywhere than those in Yankee stadium. The turnout frequently today appeared to be sympathetically partisan for the downtrodden Cubs.

---

Bill Jurges' throwing error, with two out in the second inning, which touched off a Yankee powder keg, was just a plain, semi-pro miscue. He didn't have to hurry.

---

Our famous old Aunt Kate, who used to play left field on a Bloomer girl team frequently in her declining years, went after flies in much the same way that Frank Demaree approached Frank Crosetti's triple in the second inning explosion.

---

Manager Charles Leo [Slapsy] Hartnett has nothing to do after he gets home except think about purchasing some ball players at the minor league meeting in New Orleans and the major league sessions in New York. These will be held early in December, the New Orleans one's first, the New York one's immediately afterward.

---

Ken O'Dea's homer went well over the 344 foot marker on the barrier in front of the right field grandstand. There was no question that Ken had counted as soon as the bat and ball collided.

Cubs Heap Blame on Own Heads for Series Collapse

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Smiles spread over the face of Joseph Vincent McCarthy, manager of the conquering Yankees, as he greeted his players in the dressing room today to congratulate them on their achievement of defeating the Chicago Cubs in four games in a row and rewarding him with his third consecutive world's championship.

McCarthy regarded it as a personal triumph—the gift of his players whom he regards with fatherly affection. He still considers the Yankees the best ball club he has ever assembled.

"Connie Mack says so," he said, "I agree with him."

McCarthy was supremely happy when Charles Hartnett, manager of the Cubs, came to the Yankees' dressing room first instead of his own, to congratulate McCarthy. They have been fast, warm friends over these years. Hartnett was a catcher for McCarthy when he managed the Cubs for five years through 1926-1930.

Fletcher Is Cheer Leader.

"A better guy in the whole world couldn't have won it," Hartnett said.

"Thanks, Leo," McCarthy responded, "but I'm sorry it had to be you."

The triumphant Yankees burst into the tune of "On the Sidewalks of New York" the instant they hit the dressing room. Art Fletcher, their coach, was their cheer leader. He stood on a trunk to lead the song.

The Cubs were more disgusted with themselves than downcast.

Capt. Billy Herman expressed himself in these words: "They didn't beat us. We beat ourselves. We gave it to them. It was a swell Christmas gift."

"We Were Terrible."

Herman pulled off his baseball pants and sat on his trunk. Between puffs of his cigaret he spoke his thoughts.

"We were terrible," he said. "We gave them every damn game. Look each game over. Look at the blunders we made. It was awful. We simply gave it to them."

Rip Collins, Cub first baseman, was the only Cub to take the four crushing defeats with a light heart.

"We came, we saw and now we go home," he said. "It's lucky we didn't get hurt."

Tony Lazzeri, former Yankee second baseman, spoke the thoughts of Herman in summing up the Yankee conquest.

But All Runs Count.

"We gave them four ball games," he said. "How many earned runs did those guys get? Only a couple in the four games."

Hartnett was not the only Cub to congratulate McCarthy. In trouped Charlie Root, the 40 year old Cub relief pitcher. In came Dizzy Dean, with Collins following.

"Nice going everybody," Dean shouted, clasping the hand of Charley Ruffing, the triumphant Yankee pitcher.

McCarthy refused to name an outstanding Yankee player.

"They all did a helluva job," he said. "Crosetti, Gordon, Ruffing, all of them."

Cubs to Refund Money Paid for 6th Series Game

The Chicago Cubs ticket office yesterday announced that money paid for tickets for the sixth game of the world's series will be refunded at the National Boulevard bank in the Wrigley building between the hours of 9 a. m. and 3 p. m. starting today. Out of town ticket holders can obtain a refund by sending their tickets direct to the Chicago National League Ball club, Wrigley building.

SPRINT HANDICAP HEADS PROGRAM AT SPORTSMAN'S

BY FRENCH LANE.

The youngster track on the Chicago racing circuit gets its turn at entertaining Chicago racegoers starting today when Sportsman's Park opens an annual nineteen day fall meeting at its west side course.

The opening program proves again that Sportsman's Park is the only half mile race course in the country with a metropolitan complex because every horse named for today's eight race program has put in most of the season campaigning over the major tracks. Its barns, as well as those of adjoining Hawthorne, are packed with horses awaiting the opening.

An overnight handicap fashioned for sprinters is the opening day feature. The field will include such speedsters as Rockhome stable's Dora May, E. C. Roth's Floragina, T. J. Carter's Panic Relief, J. McNamara's Chance Queen and Mrs. A. M. Creech's Shining Heels and Grey Streak.

Dora May Shows Speed.

Dora May likely will rule as the favorite. Her speedy workouts over the short track have almost assured that much. However, she will not be a short priced favorite. The odds probably will be 3 to 1 or more. There seldom are short priced favorites at Sportsman's Park, due perhaps to what many racegoers consider the uncertainties of half mile track racing.

This idea more than once has been proved erroneous by statistics. The percentage of winning favorites at Sportsman's Park last meeting was thirty-one. This is a higher average than most of Chicago's regular tracks have maintained.

Next in importance on today's card is a route event at a mile and a sixteenth, which engages ten top grade performers from the claiming ranks. Holl Image, winner of his last two starts at Washington Park and Hawthorne, looks like the choice in this number at odds of around 5 to 2.

A Consistent Starter.

This 5 year old once was the pride of William Schmidt's Superior stable. He won an Arkansas Derby in the Schmidt silks. He has been racing consistently for the last few months, having been out of the money only once in seven starts since July 5, when he was beaten badly in a sprint race at Arlington Park.

His chief rivals today will be In Chancery, Miss Ponne, O'Dessa's Pride, Molasses Bob, and What A Pal.

Fields are limited to ten starters at Sportsman's. This limit has been reached in the overnight entry lists of all the eight races today. While today's races number eight, hereafter, with the exception of Saturdays, there will be only seven races, starting at 2 p. m.

OHIO FINDS IT DOESN'T PLAY TEAM FOOTBALL

Buckeyes Will Find N. U. Tough Opponent.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Before the Southern California-Ohio State game last Saturday Coach Howard Jones of the Trojans, said he hoped that Ohio State's mistakes would be a factor in equalizing the struggle. Jones did not indicate why he thought the Buckeyes would kick away more chances than the Trojans, but he anticipated the game as it was played.

Ohio State's fumbles—three of the five were recovered by Southern California—were important. To this indifferent ball handling add Southern California's greater speed and superior tackling in the open field and the sum is the Trojans' 14 to 7 victory.

Score on Blocked Kick.

Ohio State might have been the winner. The Buckeyes will not forget that their best offense failed after it had advanced to the Trojan's 1 yard line because of a five yard penalty for a fourth time out and because only sixteen seconds remained to play in the half. But Ohio State must admit that its touchdown was the result of a blocked kick and that the Buckeyes' attack collapsed completely in the final thirty minutes.

Ohio State's tackling failures and lack of speed down field gave Grenville Lansdell, Trojan quarter back, his chance to return Mike Kabealo's punt eighty-two yards for a touchdown. Lack of defensive speed in covering passes made possible Al Krueger's dash into the Ohio State end zone in the third period to receive Oliver Day's pass for the winning touchdown.

Fumble Stops Assault.

As Coach Jones guessed, a fumble by Don Scott on first down on Southern California's 17 yard line in the first period stopped the first Buckeye assault. Another error by Scott in the same period when the ball was recovered by Lansdell gave the Trojans the oval on Ohio State's 46 yard line and ended the Buckeyes' insistent pressure. And finally, a fumble by Ohio State's Al Zuchegno in the fourth period, recovered by the Trojans on Ohio State's 21 yard line, was material in keeping the Buckeyes bottled up for the remainder of the game.

Potentially Ohio State is dangerous because its line is rugged and has shown flashes of offensive power. The backs, however, are defensively weak against passes. Indiana's Joe Nicholson caused the Buckeyes a lot of trouble and the same faults cost the Southern California game. More important, Ohio State hasn't played team football consistently and if the Buckeyes lose to Northwestern this week, as now seems quite likely, Ohio State may never get together.

In Northwestern, which Saturday easily defeated Drake, 33 to 0, to conclude its preliminary schedule, Coach Lynn Waldorf suspects he has a good gridiron machine, but until it meets a line as heavy as that of Ohio State and until his passers show the accuracy necessary to complete throws against Kabealo, Langurst, Sexton, and Strausbaugh neither he nor anyone else can say positively how good it is. And Ohio State scored against the Trojans by blocking a kick which may serve to remind Northwestern's Bernie Jefferson that the same misfortune happened to him last year.

Maroons Hope to Beat Iowa.

The results of Saturday's four Big Ten games followed pattern, but the manner of accomplishment in at least three was amazing. Michigan defeated Chicago, 45 to 7, when two touchdowns were believed to be proper margin. It is obvious that the Maroons are completely outclassed but they may still hope, perhaps, for victory over Iowa this week, although this probably will be denied. An inexperienced, ineffective line, with practically no reserves cannot cope with a large, well balanced squad such as Michigan has and which is imbued with a new spirit.

Minnesota, which will provide the supreme test for the new Michigan eleven, came through successfully in its opening Big Ten game with Purdue. Minnesota won, 7 to 0, with a waste of power believeable only because the Boilermakers fought every foot of the way. The Gophers led in first downs, 17 to 1; gained 316 yards to seventy-seven from scrimmage, but the surprising statistical result was that neither completed a forward pass.

Iowa learned about rapid fire scoring Saturday from Wisconsin when the Badgers scored three touchdowns in the first four minutes of the second half and eventually won, 31 to 13. Even admitting that with the possible exception of Chicago, the Hawkeye line is the weakest in the Big Ten, does not entirely explain Wisconsin's scoring parade. Wisconsin is well balanced. The Badgers have squad strength, running and passing, and their blocking has improved. Just what progress Wisconsin has made will be judged more easily when Pittsburgh comes to Madison this week. Win or lose Saturday, however, Wisconsin will be a factor in the conference race.

Illinois Stops Graham.

Illinois survived Indiana's tornado of passes—the Hoosiers threw 37 and completed 14—to win, 12 to 2, getting the second touchdown by pass interception in the last 15 seconds of the game. The Illini held Indiana to minus nine yards net from scrimmage and stopped Paul Graham's spinners which had bothered Ohio State so much the preceding week. Trailing 2 to 0 at the start of the half, Illinois' most encouraging work of the afternoon was the forty-one yard march in ten plays for the winning touchdown.

Because of defensive ability, Illinois will provide Notre Dame with a real afternoon's labor this week. The Irish kept command of their engagement with Georgia Tech and won 14 to 6.

De La Salle, 32; St. Rita, 6.

The winning Fenwick touchdown was scored in the second quarter, Barrett, veteran full back, plunging over right tackle from the six yard line. Ed Young led De La Salle against Rita, counting three touchdowns on runs of sixteen and eighteen yards and a two yard plunge.

Ignatius Pass Scores.

After tying the score at 6 to 6, St. Ignatius went over again in the third period for its winning touchdown against St. George. The touchdown was made on a nineteen yard pass from Goodreau to Markey. Lineups:

Lions Shatter Packer Line to Win, 17-7

Dick Nardi, a rookie from Ohio State, drove like men possessed. They plunged and ran to 188 yards against 91 for Green Bay, which led in total yardage, 271 to 214, and in first downs, twelve to Detroit's ten. Green Bay's statistical advantage accrued from pass completions. The Packers threw thirty, completing fourteen for 180 yards. Fifty-four yards of this total represented an Isbell to Don Hutson pass in the second quarter.

Green Bay missed three chances to score, Clark Hinkle and Tiny Engebretsen, two of the club's most reliable placekickers, both bobbling field goals in the first half, and Wayland Becker, veteran end, dropping a pass in the end zone. It was the Packers' second defeat against three victories.

Detroit's touchdown march at the start of the third period was a fine display of offensive football. Shepherd brought the kickoff back thirty-three yards to the 40 yard line.

And He Goes Over.

Klewicki got four yards on an end around, then Nardi, Huffman and Shepherd spun inside the tackles, lunged over center and bullied their way through the Packer secondary for fifty-six yards in nine plays, Shepherd spinning inside the Packers' right tackle for the last seven yards and the score.

The Packers then put on an offensive demonstration of their own. McDonald had intercepted a Packer pass deep in his own territory and Detroit kicked out to the Green Bay 42 yard line. From this point the Packers began the drive that culminated in a touchdown at the start of the fourth period. Monnett passed sixteen yards to Laws. Hinkle lost a yard, then Monnett passed to Hinkle for sixteen. Another pass by Monnett was taken by Laws for seven yards as the period ended on Detroit's 20 yard line.

Paul Miller spun for eight yards on the first play of the last period. Isbell failed to gain, then passed into the end zone where Mulleneaux was wide open. The toss was low, however. Hutson fumbled Isbell's next pass. Then on fourth down, Isbell whipped a flat pass to Mulleneaux, who took the ball on the run for the touchdown.

DODGERS WIN, 17 TO 7

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 17 to 7, today.

Ace Parker handled the ball on four out of five Brooklyn plays and raced seventy-yards off tackle in the fourth quarter to insure the decision after he had thrown a fifty-four yard pass to Jeff Barrett in the second period. The Dodgers took the lead in the second period when Ralph Kercheval place kicked a field goal from Pittsburgh's 34 yard line.

This inspired the Pirates, who beat Brooklyn two weeks ago, to press eighty yards to a touchdown in half a dozen plays, Byron [Whizzer] White passing to Wilbur Sortet for a fifty yard gain and the score. Armand Niccolai place kicked the extra point.

Parker gained 103 yards in fifteen attempts at rushing, although he kept busy most of the time handing the ball to the half backs on reverses. White, with 116 yards in sixteen tries, led the ground gainers. Lineup:

| BROOKLYN [17]. | | PITTSBURGH [7]. |
|---|---|---|
| Swartz | L.E. | Manske |

MILLS, KICKING EXPERT, DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 9.—(AP)—LeRoy Newton Mills, 55, a lawyer whose hobby developed into a technical knowledge which had an important influence on modern American football, died of a heart attack today.

Mills was about to instruct some of Princeton university's backs in the style of kicking which he turned into a fine art when he complained of a cold in the chest. He died a few minutes later in Princeton hospital.

Mills lived in Scarsdale, N. Y., and practised law in Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

A member of the class of 1905, he played guard on his Princeton freshman football team, but his interest in kicking began in the role of a spectator ten years ago. He studied the angles at which the toe should meet the ball to gain accuracy and distance in punts, dropkicks and placements and soon made himself useful as an amateur specialty coach for high school teams.

As his ability and fame grew, Mills carried his teachings to many big colleges, among them Penn, Yale, Harvard, Cornell, Dartmouth, Army, Navy, Brown, Columbia, Notre Dame, Northwestern, and Rutgers. Such stars as Frank Carideo of Notre Dame and Cliff Montgomery of Columbia learned from him the fine points of kicking.

The All-Stars scored the winning run in the ninth on two hits and an error. Joe Dooley of Birmingham led off with a single to right, went to third when the right fielder let the ball roll to the fence, and scored when Leo Ogorek of Louisville singled. Score:

Cisco Battles Zale Tonight in 10 Rounds

Tony Ciacco of New York, who changed his surname to Cisco recently, expects to distinguish himself at the expense of Tony Zale, member of the 1934 Golden Gloves intercity team, in a ten round bout tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

Cisco, formerly of Norristown, Pa., is making his first appearance in this section. He is a hardy young boxer of the club fighter type. Cisco's five round technical knockout of Eddie Guerra in Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 23 may be an index to the eastern boy's skill. He hopes to hand Zale his twelfth setback in a four year campaign.

The contest will be Zale's thirty-eighth in the professional ranks. The Gary slugger has scored twenty-five victories, eleven by knockouts. He fought a draw with Billy Celebron in the same arena July 18, but in a rematch Aug. 22 Celebron won the decision.

Despite his disappointing performance in August Zale remains one of the hardest punchers in his class. Supporting matches:

Jimmy Buckler vs. Joe Law, [5], 132; Eddie Dempsey vs. Miles Martinez, [4], 130; Emil Campagna vs. K. O. Brown, [4], heavyweights; Chief Bob Wilson vs. Johnny Williams, [4], 145.

Ruffy Silverstein is paired with Pete Schu and Hans Schnabel with Ignacio Martinez in two encounters featuring this evening's wrestling show in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. Other engagements involve Jack Conley and Jim Heffner, Pete Sherman and Al Williams, and Otto Schnabel and Mike Markoff.

Mike Jacobs, New York promoter, who holds exclusive rights to Joe Louis' bouts, yesterday conferred with Julian Black, representative of Bomber Joe, about Louis' next defense of his heavyweight title against Max Baer or Lou Nova in San Francisco next spring.

Louis, who is on tour on the Pacific coast with his softball team, will take things easy until after his next contest is arranged, Co-Manager Black said. The champion will return from the coast Oct. 26. F. M.

Spaniels to Open World Series of Own This Week

BY BOB BECKER.

A special "world series" for springer spaniels in the middle west will be the major attraction for upland game and marsh hunters of Chicagoland next Saturday and Sunday. The springer spaniels will compete in a series of stakes sponsored by the English Springer Spaniel Field Trial Club of Illinois.

The trial, open to the public, will be held at Ranch lake beach, 2½ miles north of Elgin on highway 31. This is indeed a "world series" for the dogs, inasmuch as one stake is an open all-age event, with championship points going to the winner.

Judges for the trial will be Glen S. Dundore, Plainfield, Ill.; Hugh Parker, Greeley, Ia., and J. H. Svendsen, Chicago. These men not only will judge the springers but also will pick the winning cocker spaniels in a special stake for these little gun dogs on the first day of the trial.

The springers will have Saturday to themselves. Three stakes—the amateur handlers, shooting dog, and the open all-age—are on the program. Owners of trained springers or cockers who want to run their dogs in this trial should contact A. P. Moecher, secretary of the club, whose address is Oakcrest, North Farnsworth, Aurora, Ill.

If the two little imported springer spaniels, Dalshangan Pomme de Terre and Chunal Wendy, that have been burning up the midwestern field trial circuit with their performances this fall maintain their present pace in this trial, sportsmen are going to see some exciting competition.

Many Chicagoland springers have been in training for months for this event and will be ready to give a top performance in bird finding and retrieving. Dalshangan Pomme de Terre, appropriately called Spud by his owner, David Silberman of Chicago, has been in three spaniel stakes this fall, won two firsts and a second, and his championship in just a few weeks. This is about as good a performance as could be asked of any springer.

We saw this 35 pound speedster last spring when we helped judge the spaniel stake of the Midwest Field Trial club. Spud then was just breaking into the field trial game. He lost to his running mate, Alskeith Grant, but nevertheless gave a fine performance. Chunal Wendy, another spaniel imported by Silberman last spring, placed second at the Omaha trials last week-end. She is another speed artist in the marsh.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 9.—(AP)—St. Mary's Gaels, their once famous gallop slowed down to a walk for three quarters, engineered a sharp passing attack in the final period today to beat Loyola university's Lions, 7 to 0, before 50,000.

Congressman Patman to discuss national issues.

About 400 officials of 146 life insurance companies will attend the sessions of the American Life convention. The meetings will begin at the Edgewater Beach hotel this morning and will continue through Thursday.

The largest convention scheduled for the week is that of the National Association of Retail Druggists. It will be held at the Hotel Sherman beginning today and lasting through Friday. Officials said more than 1,200 members of the Chicago Retail Druggists' association will be hosts to 5,000 members of the national group.

The National Association of Food Chains will convene at the Blackstone hotel. The National Bureau of Public School Business Officials will meet at the Palmer house. Several other groups also will hold annual meetings.

The benefits of adhering to American democratic principles will be stressed at the insurance meetings, the program indicates. The question of what lies ahead for insurance companies, in view of present low interest rates, will be discussed.

Leading financial officers of the companies will devote an entire day to a survey of conditions and discussions of methods of increasing the average yield on investments. The average rate is said to have fallen to a point not far above the guaranteed interest rate in the policies of many companies.

OIL WELLS NEAR FINAL TEST IN MATTOON AREA

Mattoon, Ill., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Large scale oil development in the Illinois basin reached its northern most point last week. Three wells already are being drilled in this vicinity and another is scheduled to be started within a few days.

Two of the three wells on whico drilling is in progress near Mattoon were nearing "critical" stages during the week-end. The test being made by the Thompson Drilling company of Chicago and Mattoon on the G. F. Degler farm, one and a half miles northwest of this city, has reached a depth of 2,000 feet. The McClosky lime is expected to be encountered at 2,200 feet.

Another test, the Phillips Petroleum company's No. 1 Ozee well, thirteen miles southeast of Mattoon, is drilling at 2,175 feet. A core showing no indication of oil was taken from the well at a depth of 2,120 feet.

The third well being drilled is the No. 1 L. E. Andrews, seven miles southwest of Mattoon. Actual drilling got under way Thursday.

I. C. C. RULES 'RED CAPS' ARE RAIL EMPLOYES SUBJECT TO LABOR ACT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—[Special.] The interstate commerce commission has ruled that "red caps" who carry baggage at the stations are railway employés. As such they are subject to the provisions of the railway labor act.

The commission's order applied specifically to cities of more than 100,000 population, but it added that "there is no apparent reason why the work performed at smaller cities should be treated any differently."

The commission ruled that the conclusion is "inescapable" that red caps are "necessary in the interests of a well managed station" and regardless of whether a wage is paid, the railroad has the right to discharge the red cap and exercise authority over the conduct of his work.

$700,000 POOL CREATED BY WPA TO SAVE TOOLS

Centralized State Unit to Handle Equipment.

A step toward efficiency through the creation of a state pool of all WPA tools and machinery was announced yesterday by Charles E. Miner, state chief of the Works Progress administration. Before the creation of the pool, Miner said, responsibility for WPA tools had not been centralized.

Miner said a revolving fund of $700,000 had been created with WPA funds to buy and service tools and machinery. All tools previously purchased by WPA will revert to the pool upon completion of the projects on which they are being used.

Seven Offices Once Responsible.

In the past, Miner explained, it has been the practice to buy the tools needed for each individual project and charge them to that project. When work ended the WPA district office, of which there are seven in the state, assumed control of the equipment until it could be assigned to another job.

"This system left loose ends which the new supply pool will tie up," Miner said. "Under the new plan we will have constant control over all tools and equipment."

Picks and shovels, for example, will be supplied to each project from warehouses established by the revolving fund in each district in the state. The project will be charged with the purchase price or fair value of the tools.

Return Tools; Get Credit.

When the project is ended the tools will be returned to the pool and the project will be credited with their depreciated value.

The money charged against the project for the tools will be sent to the revolving fund so the purchase of new tools and equipment will be possible as the old equipment is worn out. Machinery, such as concrete mixers, pumps, and air compressors, will be reduced in twenty months to a quick sale book value so they can be sold without loss in the event that PWA is discontinued.

WHEAT GROWING NATIONS VIE FOR WORLD MARKET

Governments Rule Buying, Selling.

The fight among wheat growing nations for a share of the world market has brought a departure from normal in the handling of the current crop. Virtually all of the wheat now entering international trade channels is being sold or bought with government participation.

Nearly all of the exporting countries are subsidizing wheat shipments in an offort to get the crop sold. They fear a glut in the market at the end of the season.

The United States is paying an outright export subsidy on wheat and flour. Canada, Rumania, Bulgaria, Jugo-Slavia, and Poland pay relatively high prices to farmers and assume the loss on foreign shipments. Australia is adopting this policy, and Argentina is expected to do likewise.

Europe Governs Imports.

In the importing countries of Europe the wheat trade is largely a government monopoly. Licenses are required for the importation of wheat. The grain is imported under strict regulations, with a high duty levied. In theory the United Kingdom has no official control regulations. However, the British Board of Trade, corresponding to the department of commerce in the United States, makes "suggestions" which are regarded as all powerful.

The United States is almost universally blamed by European authorities for the present chaotic condition of the world wheat market. However it was about the last of the leading producing countries to announce it was determined to fight for its share of the trade in wheat.

Expect Smaller Seedings.

A somewhat smaller world's winter wheat acreage is expected to be seeded this fall for the 1939 crop. This results mainly from relatively low prices. The larger part of the northern hemisphere wheat crop is of the fall sown variety. Canada and Russia are the leading spring wheat producers.

Seeding of winter wheat has been delayed in parts of the United States and central Europe by dry weather. Drouth conditions continue to prevail in parts of Australia, where the new crop is made or lost according to precipitation in September and October. The grain is harvested in November and December.

Corn Moves to Market.

The new corn crop has started to move to market. Husking is reported over a considerable part of the main producing area. Farmers recently have been forced to sell millions of bushels of old corn in order to make crib room for the new crop. Although the 1938 harvest is estimated to be about 200 million bushels less than in 1937, supplies are believed to be more than ample for all requirements.

Week's Range of Prices.

The range of grain prices last week follows:

Reserve Board Reports Spurt in Production

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—For the first time in many months the term "sharp rise" appears in the federal reserve bulletin as descriptive of recent industrial production. This description is used in the October bulletin made public today.

"The increased activity that has occurred since early summer has been reflected in a sharp rise in the board's seasonally adjusted index of industrial production," the bulletin said.

"Limited data available indicate that in September the index was at about 90 per cent of the 1923-25 average, as compared with 88 in August, 83 in July, and an average of 77 in the second quarter of this year."

Highest Since October, 1937.

The board's index of 90 for September would be the highest since October, 1937, when it stood at 102. It slipped to 88 in November of last year and declined steadily to a low of 76 in May of this year.

"Activity at cotton and woolen textile mills, which began to increase in May, advanced very rapidly and in August was at about the same rate as in the middle of 1936," the report said. "There has also been a marked advance in the rayon industry.

"Steel ingot production, which had been at a low level during the first half of 1938, advanced steadily from 26 per cent of capacity in the middle of June to 47 per cent at the end of September."

"This increase reflected in large part an adjustment of output to the level of current consumption."

The board called attention to increased residential construction, larger freight trafic, and increases in both retail and wholesale trade.

Security Flotations Rise.

Although banks still are overburdened with unused credit, the bulletin said new corporate security flotations have increased in recent months.

Issues for new capital during June, July, and August averaged about $150,000,000 per month, as compared with a monthly average of $32,000,000 earlier in the year and with an average of $99,000,000 in 1936 and 1937, it said.

"Commercial, industrial, and agricultural loans this year have not shown the growth that usually takes place during the third quarter," the board reported.

8,800 MEMBER BANKS EARN 145 MILLIONS IN FIRST HALF OF YEAR

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The federal reserve board reported today that net profits of its 8,800 member banks increased slightly in the first half of 1938, compared with the last half of 1937. However, they fell far below those of the first half of 1937, the board added.

Profits were estimated at $145,000,000 for the six month period, compared with $141,000,000 in the last half of 1937 and $195,000,000 in the first half of 1937.

Total current earnings of the banks continued to decline, but expenses were less and profits on securities were higher.

DOUBT LAKE ORE TRAFIC WILL BE 20 MILLION TONS

Cleveland, O., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—All hopes that this season's ore movement would reach the 20,000,000 ton mark have been abandoned, operators of major Great Lakes fleets reported today.

When increased consumption by steel mills accelerated the ore movement six weeks ago, vessel men revised pre-season estimates and predicted shipments would total twenty million tons. Steel production has continued to increase, but huge surplus stocks on lake docks and in furnace yards have curtailed the demand for ore.

Vessels moved 3,284,800 tons of ore to lower lake ports last month, compared with 9,173,991 tons in the same month last year.

STORES' SALES DECLINE 9 PCT. FROM YEAR AGO

Department store sales in the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district were 9 per cent lower in September than a year earlier, the federal reserve board said yesterday. The average decline for all districts was also 9 per cent.

All districts showed smaller store sales than a year ago. Declines by districts were: Boston, 11 per cent; New York, 6 per cent; Philadelphia, 12 per cent; Cleveland, 14 per cent; Richmond, 4 per cent; Atlanta, 3 per cent; St. Louis, 8 per cent; Minneapolis, 3 per cent; Kansas City, 10 per cent; Dallas, 6 per cent, and San Francisco, 15 per cent.

Nash Plants Reopen Today; Dispute Ends

Racine, Wis., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—The Racine and Kenosha Nash auto plants, closed by a labor dispute that tied up 7,000 jobs, will be reopened tomorrow morning.

Settlement of the dispute in the Racine plant that was closed Aug. 22, and which resulted in the closing of the Milwaukee and Kenosha plants Sept. 27, was reached tonight at a conference of company officials and leaders of C. I. O. automobile workers.

Details Not Disclosed.

Richard Frankenstein, international vice president, announced the settlement had been reached after thirty-two hours conference. Complete terms of the settlement have not been revealed.

However, Frankenstein said the Racine plant, which the company originally announced that it was closing permanently, will be operated as a parts plant, employing about 200 men. The remainder of the regular employés of the Racine plant will be transferred to the Kenosha plant and will become members of the Kenosha United Auto Workers, local number 72.

Regulars Get Jobs.

Frankenstein said all regular employés of the Racine and Kenosha plants will be given employment. Seniority of Racine men will be adjusted to fit into the Kenosha plant. The seniority adjustment is the point that has held up settlement for several weeks.

These seniority adjustment terms will be revealed later, the international officers said.

Grumman Aircraft Gets $754,000 Navy Contract

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—The Grumman Aircraft Engineering corporation announces the receipt of a contract from the United States navy department for twenty amphibian planes, model J3F3. The order calls for an expenditure of $754,000 by the government. Unfilled orders of the corporation, including the new contract, amounted to more than $4,400,000 as of Oct. 1, compared with $3,751,000 on July 1.

STOCKS WHIRL UPWARD SECOND STRAIGHT WEEK

Fast Rise Puts Many at New 1938 Highs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 9.—Stocks curved sharply upward last week for the second week in a row. Issues in all sections of the list bounded to new highs for the year. Many gains ranged from 1 to 6 points and a few up to 10.

Sentiment in Wall street turned decidedly optimistic. Tickers got little rest as traders bid up their favorites. The volume for the week was 9,647,000 shares, the heaviest for any week since July 23.

War worries became only a memory in the financial district. Business statistics became the first consideration, and these were regarded as favorable.

Index Highest in Year.

Many observers now are saying that this is a major bull market. To bolster their contention they point out that since a week ago Wednesday the Dow-Jones industrial index has shot up 22½ points. At the close Saturday the price level had reached its greatest height since Oct. 4, 1937.

Rail averages have worked forward in nine straight sessions. Utilities forged ahead quietly but steadily.

Dealings produced evidence that the public is once more back in the market. Low priced shares were trotted out for inspection last week and bid actively higher. Loft, Standard Brands, and Radio were outstanding in this group.

Just a year ago at this time, it was recalled, the price trend was in the opposite direction. Business indices were on the downgrade. Arguments arose as to whether the situation should be called a "recession" or "depression." Blame was laid at the door of the Roosevelt administration for the burdens it placed on business.

Regard Outlook as Favorable.

Now many observers regard the business outlook as favorable, so long as Europe keeps the peace. A resurrected White House "spokesman" has asked business for coöperation. Industry answered that as far as it is concerned there will be no saber rattling.

Only the oil shares showed the effects of bad business news. Weakness in the oil price structure cropped out last week.

Motors, rails, rail accessories, chemicals, coppers, and steels turned in the best performances, but all groups except the oils showed strength.

Laurels for the biggest advance went to U. S. Gypsum, which spurted 10 points. Other big gainers included Allied Chemical, up 9; Westinghouse, up 9¼; American Smelting, up 6¼, and U. S. Rubber, up 6⅞ points.

Motors stocks did well. Chrysler rose 5¼ points and General Motors advanced 1½ points. United States Steel closed the week at a new high for the year, up 4 points.

With two excellent weeks in the record, some observers are beginning to ring the caution bell.

Loans by Chicago Banks at Low Level

The chart illustrates the trend of the volume of loans and discounts by all Chicago banks since 1920. The low level to which the loans and discounts have fallen indicates the banks are finding a slack demand for funds. When business is good, loans and discounts rise. They drop when commerce and industry are curtailed.

OIL WELL TO BE SUNK ON SMALL CEMETERY LOT; BODIES REMOVED

Centralia, Ill., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—A group of oil operators is preparing to drill two oil wells on a cemetery lot 16 feet long and 16 feet wide. The lot was purchased from a group of heirs.

Two men traveled as far as Colorado to obtain heirs' signatures and the tiny lot finally was bought for $1,600. The heirs received from $25 to $250 apiece.

The lot, in the midst of heavy timber in the Lake Centralia oil fields, contained three graves. An undertaker moved the three caskets—a couple and their baby, buried about forty-five years ago—to Elmwood cemetery in Centralia.

The deal was one of the most complicated in southern Illinois oil basin history and was carried out secretly in competition with a major oil company. Paxton Gray, one of the independent promoters, said drilling will be done with a coring machine 12 feet by 12 feet.

ELECTRIC POWER AND LIGHT PROFIT IS MUCH LOWER

The Electric Power and Light corporation and subsidiaries yesterday reported net income of $5,620,369 for the twelve months ended Aug. 31. This compared with $9,596,885 in the twelve months to Aug. 31, 1937. Gross revenues aggregated $106,133,206 and $106,876,081 in the respective periods.

For the three months to Aug. 31 the system had consolidated net income of $107,147, against $1,918,339 in the three months to Aug. 31, 1937.

The United Gas corporation and subsidiaries reported for the twelve months to Aug. 31 a consolidated net income of $6,774,302. This compared with $11,520,077 in the preceding twelve months. Gross revenues were $42,076,925, against $45,866,059. United Gas is controled by Electric Power and Light.

For the three months to Aug. 31 United Gas and subsidiaries had a consolidated net income of $537,443.

CHICAGO BANKS SEEKING OUTLET FOR IDLE FUNDS

Loans, Discounts Rise Less than Seasonally.

Chicago banks still face a problem in finding an outlet for their funds in the form of loans and discounts, the latest bank call indicates. Quarterly reports are being made public in response to calls issued by the national controler of the currency and State Auditor Edward J. Barrett.

Loans and discounts of Chicago banks, including both state and national, were $605,970,000 on Sept. 28, compared with $604,783,000 June 30. This $1,187,000 increase was far less than is normal for the period. In the same period last year the increase was 71 million dollars.

On Oct. 4, 1929, loans and discounts reached a record of $2,201,448,000. They had moved up from $2,098,228,000 on June 29 of that year.

Loans and discounts of Chicago banks have not reached the billion dollar mark on any call date since March 30, 1932, when they were $1,066,002,000.

ODD-LOT HOUSES START FIGHT ON TRADE 'SNIPING'

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Three big odd lot houses have demanded that the New York Stock exchange end "sniping" in their field, it was learned today. Decoppet & Doremus, Jacquelin & Decoppet, and Carlisle, Mellick & Co. are asking protection from firms that attract business by absorbing taxes on buying orders.

The odd lot firms argue they are entitled to protection from this kind of competition because they agree to buy or sell odd lots in any listed stock except those normally traded in less than 100 share units. Most stocks, they say, cannot be handled at a profit on the normal odd-lot differential of ⅛ point. They must make up their losses by profits on the active issues.

Their competitors, the firms contend, handle only a few active stocks, and do not have losses from "slow-movers" to absorb. Such firms are able to do business without passing along the tax on "buy orders" to their customers.

OUTLYING BANKS SHOW GAINS IN LOANS, DEPOSITS

Most of Them Buy More U. S. Bonds.

Several of Chicago's outlying banks showed moderate increases in loans or deposits, or both, during the third quarter of this year. Most of them, like the downtown banks, increased their government bond holdings by investing part of their idle cash in these securities.

This was shown in statements of condition as of Sept. 28, issued in response to calls by the national controler of currency and the Illinois state auditor. A summary of the combined statements, which appeared in Saturday's TRIBUNE, showed little change in loans and deposits of all Chicago banks combined.

Report Seasonal Upturn.

Increased loans and discounts in the last three months were reported by the Live Stock National Bank of Chicago and the Drovers' National bank. Officials of both banks said, however, that the upturn was largely seasonal, reflecting a stepup in live stock runs.

Live Stock National loans and discounts advanced to a total of $4,720,000 on Sept. 28, compared with $4,067,000 on June 30. In the same period total deposits slipped to $24,935,000 from $24,935,000. The bank bought about $1,270,000 of government bonds, making $3,860,000 held on Sept. 28.

Loans and discounts of Drovers' National were increased from $4,160,000 to $4,883,000 during the quarter. Deposits increased from $25,478,000 to $26,015,000.

Invests More in U. S. Bonds.

The Drovers' Trust and Savings bank pumped more than $4,000,000 of cash into government bonds, making holding about $5,600,000.

The Central National bank in Chicago increased loans and discounts to $2,416,000 on Sept. 28, compared with $2,189,000 on June 30. Total deposits increased to $6,622,000 from $6,431,000.

Loans and discounts of the Merchandising Bank and Trust company were stepped up to $4,943,000 on Sept. 28 from $4,417,000 on June 30. Deposits gained to $18,851,000 from $18,357,000.

Other banks reporting moderate increases in loans and discounts included the Lawndale National bank, Madison-Crawford National Bank of Chicago, Merchants National bank in Chicago, Austin State bank, South East National Bank of Chicago, and Liberty National Bank of Chicago.

Other Banks Reduce Loans.

Slight declines in loans were shown by a number of other banks. Loans and discounts of the District National Bank of Chicago slipped during the quarter from $1,128,000 to $992,000.

Mid-City National loans and discounts of $3,320,000 on Sept. 28 compared with $3,390,000 on June 30. Deposits dipped to $9,876,000.

Chicago City Bank and Trust loans and discounts showed a negligible decrease. Deposits rose to $22,487,000.

Loans and discounts of $1,715,000 on Sept. 28 were reported by the Pullman Trust and Savings bank. This total compared with $1,844,000 on June 30. Total deposits declined.

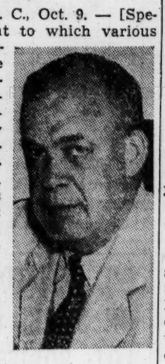
STUDY SUBSIDY FOR ALL FORMS OF TRANSPORT

Eastman Reveals He Has Made 5 Year Search.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9. — [Special.]—The extent to which various forms of transportation are subsidized by federal or local governments is being studied by Interstate Commerce Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman, it was learned today. It became known for the first time that he began the study a few years ago when he was federal coördinator of transportation. The work is nearly complete and may be published by the end of this year.



Joseph B. Eastman.

This is believed to be the first time a federal agency has conducted, simultaneously, comprehensive studies into subsidies received by railroads, aviation, motor carriers, and canals.

Look to the Future.

These facts will be presented at a time when competition between various forms of transport has reached an intense stage. Railroads are chafing under federal regulation, and the issue has crystallized into what appears to be a concerted effort either to revoke or modify greatly the powers vested in the interstate commerce commission.

An unprecedented publicity campaign through the Association of American Railroads, a large part of which is directed against existing powers of the government, has attracted wide public attention. It also has caused some government officials, in and out of the interstate commerce commission, to question the propriety of some of the association's advertising.

Rails' View of Situation.

The association's full page advertisments appearing nationally in various publications of wide circulation had the following to say of the railroad problem:

"It is due, at bottom, to the fact that railroads must operate under rigid regulations based on a 50 year old theory that they have a monopoly in transportation, and compete with three other forms of transportation subsidized or helped by tax money."

Whether the association claims to have made a comparable study the I. C. C. does not know. It does know that Commissioner Eastman's investigation still is incomplete, although nearly five years has been given to it.

Knowing the time and work involved in such studies, and the theoretical basis for many conclusions reached, official circles indicate considerable skepticism concerning unsupported conclusions.

In the motor carrier subsidy study conducted under the coördinator, it was necessary to determine the cost of all highways over which motor carriers operate; the aggregate amount of all taxes, direct and indirect, paid by the motor industry and users of its products, and what portion of all motor carrier taxes should be credited to commercial vehicles which compete directly with the railroads.

Illustrative of many controversial elements involved is the argument as to whether heavy trucks and buses are responsible for the large expenditures for heavy pavement, broad highways, and strong bridges.

There also is uncertainty as to how much subsidy the railroads have received. Land grants are the best known, but how much has been received in investments by states and municipalities, and through mail contracts, is not known.

Beatrice Creamery.

Investors' Guide: Please send me your latest report on the Beatrice Creamery company.—A. R. H.

Answer: Beatrice Creamery company is the third largest firm in the dairy products field. It manufactures butter, ice cream, condensed milk and dried milk, deals in milk and eggs, and operates cold storage plants.

The company has about 2,800 cream buying stations in the country and operates sixty-eight branch plants in twenty states. Headquarters are in Chicago.

Dollar sales of the company's products in the three months ended Aug. 31 slipped 7.45 per cent from the corresponding 1937 quarter, largely because of lower selling prices for butter and other dairy products this year. The drop in dollar volume came in spite of an increase of 5.30 per cent in unit sales.

Net profit in the August quarter dipped to $673,358, or $1.46 a common share, compared with $792,524, or $1.77 a share, in the 1937 quarter. Profits of the butter and ice cream departments were moderately lower than in 1937. Ice cream sales declined largely because of the unusually heavy rains in the summer months.

Net profit for the six months to Aug. 31 was equal to $1.72, or more than three times the regular common dividends amounting to 50 cents for the period. In the corresponding six months' period of 1937 profit was equal to $2.11 per common share.

Sales and earnings are now running substantially ahead of the lows of 1933 and 1934. Sales in the fiscal year ended Feb. 28, 1938, totaled $64,223,670, representing a steady climb from the bottom figure of $44,868,398 in 1934.

Net profit in the year to Feb. 28 was $1,444,725, equal to $2.54 a common share, compared with $1,583,707 in the preceding year. In the year ended Feb. 28, 1936, net income was $853,125, against $1,225,001 in the preceding year and $493,758 in the year to Feb. 28, 1934.

The company improved the earnings position of its common stock in 1936 by replacing the 7 per cent preferred stock with a new 5 per cent issue. Capitalization now consists of 96,617 shares of $5 dividend preferred and 378,040 shares of $25 par common stock.

Regular quarterly dividends of 25 cents a share are being paid on the common. An extra of 50 cents was paid Jan. 3, 1938. Dividends have been paid regularly on the preferred.

Rockefeller Center to Build Another 15 Story Structure

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Excavation work has been started on New York's first combination office building and garage. It will be the thirteenth unit in Rockefeller center. This fifteen story structure will occupy space in the south block, between 48th and 49th streets, from the Center theater eastward to Rockefeller plaza, now used for parking.

The six lower floors, including three below street levels, will be used largely as a garage, accommodating 800 cars. But they will not easily recognizable as such, as the street frontages will be lined with shops and the exterior walls will be of the same limestone finish as other units in Rockefeller center.

Explains Need of Garage.

Approval of the application for the special building permit has been granted by the board of standards and appeals. In its application Rockefeller Center, Inc., explained that its tenant population of 25,000 and its estimated daily transient population of about 125,000 had urgent need of parking facilities. It said the garage would be modern, fireproof, and equipped with a ventilating system.

The developers also said that as it would be available to the public as well as to Rockefeller tenants and it would help to relieve trafic and parking problems in the vicinity.

One of Three New Units.

This unit is one of three recently announced by Rockefeller as part of a $12,000,000 building program to complete the midtown development. The Associated Press building, another of this group, will receive its first tenants before Nov. 1.

The final unit in the Rockefeller center program, a skyscraper office building expected to rival in size the RKO building of thirty-one stories at Sixth avenue and Fifty-first street, will be started next fall and is scheduled for occupancy by May 1, 1940.

BEGIN HEARINGS TODAY ON BASE FOR COAL PRICES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Final procedure for determining the base for establishing minimum prices for bituminous coal in the Appalachian fields will be started tomorrow. The national bituminous coal commission will begin hearings on prices proposed by eastern producers' boards, it was announced today.

Consumers may participate in the hearings, it was said.

GERMAN IMPORTS ESCAPE PROPER TAX, SAYS WOLL

Accuses Treasury of Bad Faith or Ignorance.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Houston, Tex., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—The treasury department was charged with either ignorance or bad faith in failing to collect anti-dumping penalties on millions of dollars worth of German exports to the United States, in a letter sent the department today by Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor.

Dumping, the practice of subsidizing exports so that they can be sold abroad at less than their domestic cost of production, has been penalized by American tarif acts since 1897. The penalty is an additional duty on imports equaling the subsidy or grant received abroad.

Subsidy Equals Third of Cost.

Woll charged today that virtually all American imports from Germany are receiving, through German currency regulation grants or subsidies within the definitions of the anti-dumping acts. The subsidies average a third of the production cost of the goods, he estimated.

He wrote to Stephen S. Gibson, assistant secretary of the treasury, as president of the American Wage Earners' Protective conference. This is an organization of trades unions, affiliated with the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O., interested in maintaining a tarif on goods that compete with products made by their members, numbering more than one million.

Ignorant or Deliberate.

"The apparent position of the treasury department," Woll wrote, "can only be considered as based on a most unusual ignorance of American and anti-dumping laws, or a deliberate attempt to nullify mandatory law which the secretary of the treasury is entrusted by congress to administer in order to protect the job opportunities of America's workers.

"We again call on the secretary of the treasury to put an end to this unwarantable, unjustified, and unholy alliance between free and Democratic American and the Nazi régime with its enslaved workers and its persecuted minority races."

Present Germany subsidies, Woll explained, are based on Germany's shortage of raw materials, which has raised prices of such materials within Germany far above world prices.

Spend Profit in Germany.

American firms importing German goods are allowed to send raw materials into Germany, he said, receiving a substantial profit, but only on condition they spend the proceeds with German manufacturers for import into the United States.

This system was worked out, Woll said, after the attorney general had condemned as subject to anti-dumping penalties a previous German export system under which German exporters were allowed to redeem various forms of blocked and depreciated marks at full value to make up for losses on sales abroad.

An opinion of the attorney general in 1936 held that under that plan Germany was financing its export trade by levies on the capital of its foreign creditors, who had to take the depreciation on the marks involved because of their inability to get them out of Germany.

Engine Blows Cylinder Head in Service Test

As this locomotive roared along on its efficiency test run with throttle wide open, an observer sat behind special housing (indicated by black arrow) over the cylinder head on each side of the train. Neither was hurt, however. The picture (right, with white arrow) shows the broken cylinder head.

BONDS OF CALIFORNIA CITIES REGAIN PART OF RECENT LOSSES

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Prices on California municipal bonds continued upward last week. State and city issues recently slumped when the "$30 every Thursday" pension program was injected into the political campaign. Investors feared unfavorable results from any such program.

This week prices were fast approaching levels prevailing before the August primaries. Investors are faced with a problem of deciding whether these quotations will hold throughout the coming election period or whether the various disturbing proposals might carry and thus depress bond prices to lower levels.

BANKERS OF U. S. PARTICIPATE IN ARGENTINE BILLS

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—American banking houses have recently been participating heavily in peso treasury bills offered fortnightly by the Central Bank of Argentina According to the Argentine information bureau, reports indicate that even more interest in these short term offerings may develop if treasury bills in dollars are issued.

Financial circles in Buenos Aires say that the Argentine government has no intention of embarking on any such dollar transactions while the projected $25,000,000 ten year dollar loan is in the process of discussion.

$48,831,500 of Municipal Bonds Voted in September

Municipal bond issues aggregating $48,831,500 were approved by the voters of 430 municipalities in thirty-nine states in September. This compared with $49,712,232 of bonds approved in August. The total was the largest for any September since 1929, when new authorizations amounted to $85,308,700.

OLD LOCOMOTIVE BREAKS DOWN AT HIGH SPEED

Observers Over Two Cylinders Uninjured.

The Association of American Railroads' efficiency test of a steam passenger locomotive ended yesterday when the Pennsylvania road's locomotive blew a cylinder head. It was traveling eighty-seven miles an hour. The breakdown occurred five miles west of Warsaw, Ind.

Although observers were perched in special housing over the cylinder heads on either side of the locomotive, none was hurt. The locomotive was pulling a 1,000 ton train occupied by a committee of experts formed to develop a new steam locomotive. The purpose of this test and others to follow is to keep steam engine development abreast that of the Diesel-electric locomotives.

The locomotive, which is 14 years old, was to be operated at full throttle until the steam pressure ran out. Railroad officials were uncertain whether excessive speed or a mechanical defect was primarily responsible for the blowout. The train ran for a mile after the accident before it could be stopped.

Hides to Lether—IV.

Parchment was the paper of the ancients and also of those who maintained the literary tradition in the dark ages. Monks in gloomy monasteries spent their lives in writing and rewriting the religious narratives and philosophical and scientific papers which were studied by the clergy.

The painful labor and the cost of the parchment made the contents of those massive books extremely valuable. It was logical, therefore, that they would be bound in fine, heavy lether covers, made by hand and carved with decorative borders and center designs.

Skins from sheep and lambs [vellum], cattle, pigs, or goats [morocco] were used in book binding. Skilled labor and material expense involved make lether-obund books costly.

Lether binding today is a rare and exclusive art. Mechanical binding and cheap cloth covers have made it possible to sell books at low prices.

CHICAGO'S CORN RECEIPTS OVER 98 MILLION BUSHELS

Shipments of corn to Chicago since Jan. 1 have exceeded 98 million bushels, Lyman C. West, Board of Trade statistician, announced. The 100 million mark will be passed by the end of the year, he said.

Corn receipts in Chicago this year have been larger than at any other terminal market. More than 75 million bushels have been shipped out of Chicago, a large part to foreign ports. Of this transfer, 60,648,000 left Chicago by water since April when lake trafic opened.

FINDS INDIVIDUAL CREDIT BETTERED BY DEPRESSION

35 Billion Dollar Upturn Shown in Survey.

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Private individuals were estimated today to have gained $35,000,000,000 in credits through debt liquidation, new investments, and increased assets during the depression and recovery years.

The estimate was made by the committee on debt adjustment of the Twentieth Century fund, a privately financed research organization. J. Lionberger Davis, St. Louis banker, is chairman of the committee.

Emphasizing individuals in the aggregate are "net creditors to a huge and increasing extent," the committee offered the conclusion that individuals and unincorporated businesses on the whole emerged from the period" in a much stronger position in the nation's economic structure than before."

Will Discuss Public Policy.

The committee said it would recommend changes in public policy as a result of its findings, but did not disclose the nature of its proposals.

Major changes in the financial position of the individual were summed up as follows:

1. Increased cash and bank balances.
2. A "huge" gain in insurance cash and paid-up values, paralleling the "enormous increase of life insurance company business."
3. A large shrinkage in mortgage debt through foreclosure.
4. Increased holdings of government bonds, either by the individual himself or savings institutions.

The movement to the credit side on long-term debts, consisting of those maturing in more than a year, was figured at about $12,000,000,000 from 1930 to 1935, while the change for short-term debts toward creditorship approximated $23,000,000,000.

Bankruptcies Wipe Out Debts.

Pointing out the change in part resulted from wiping out of debts through bankruptcy, the study noted that corporations reported to the bureau of internal revenue they had charged off about $5,900,000,000 of bad debts from 1930 to 1934.

It was estimated about $5,000,000,000 in mortgages was wiped out by foreclosure between 1930 and 1936 after one-third to one-half of $40,000,000,000 in mortgage debt had fallen into default by 1933.

Domestic bond holdings of individuals were placed at about $50,000,000,000 in 1934, with tax-exempt holdings of well-to-do individuals ranging from $10,000,000,000 to $15,000,000,000.

MEAT PACKER FOREIGN TRADE BALANCE MORE FAVORABLE IN AUGUST

The trade balance of the American packer in foreign markets in August was the most favorable for that month in several years. The volume was below that of July, however.

Packers exported 30 per cent less pork than during July, but their sales were 40 per cent above a year ago and the heaviest for August in three years. Exports were 2,441,384 pounds above imports. In August last year pork exports fell 2,142,513 pounds short of the imports.

Exports of all pork, exclusive of lard, for the month aggregated 6,486,391 pounds, compared with 9,305,402 pounds in July. A year ago sales abroad totaled 4,631,343 pounds and two years ago they were 6,105,196. Imports were cut from 4,743,602 during July to 4,045,007 in August. They were 6,773,856 a year ago when sales of foreign pork in America were running the largest on record.

Imports of beef and veal fell to 5,818,488 pounds, smallest since February, and smallest for August since 1932. They totaled 8,012,774 pounds in the preceding month and 8,402,961 in June. Last May they were up to 9,900,173 pounds. A year ago the United States imported 7,499,122 pounds of beef and veal in August, and two years ago 9,280,167 pounds.

STEEL OUTPUT CLIMBS TO BEST LEVEL IN YEAR

Steel ingot production rose 1.5 points last week to 48.5 per cent of theoretical capacity, the magazine Steel estimated yesterday. This was the highest rate for any week since October, 1937.

Improved sentiment was believed to be largely the result of easing of the European tension, the trade journal indicated. Most of the increased business consisted of releases against old orders rather than new buying.

"Whether uncertainty induced by war threats was primarily responsible for the recent leveling in steel demand, or whether the lull merely represented a breathing spell after the sharp July-August upturn, is debatable," Steel said.

"The fact that war talk was accompanied by only a small slowing in activity, however, is regarded as indicative of the strength behind the recovery of the last three months. This is particularly in view of the prompt turn for the better upon the easing of tension in Europe.

"Gains in automotive requirements are responsible for a large part of the recent upturn in steel shipments. However, building work and miscellaneous users are providing substantial support. Operations of some farm equipment manufacturers are headed upward after a quiet summer, particularly in the tractor division, and will help to bolster steel demand this quarter."

The sharpest gain in output of steel ingots last week was made at Youngstown.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Indian Summer Days

Oct. 8, 1938.

PLEASANT Indian summer days are likely to make the city dweller think about autumn hikes through the woods, vivid colors in the leaves of trees and shrubs, scarlet leaves of woodbine rambling over farm fences, pheasant in full plumage, and autumn bird migrants on the ponds and in the fields.

But to the men on the Tribune's DuPage county farm autumn days are days of hard work in the fields. Grain drills, plows, tractors, and mule teams are being kept busy in the fields. When the weather gets the fields in just the right condition for fall plowing and planting grain, the cue for the men on the farm is to go ahead and get these important jobs out of the way.

Work in the Fields.

We were on the farm the other afternoon when one of the men was operating a tractor and three share plow, and another was planting rye with a grain drill pulled by a big team of mules. In a third field another worker was running a tractor pulling a disk and harrow, getting the ground ready for the rye planter who was to move in the following day.

The turkeys which live in the woods and barnyard can't be quite as independent now as they were all summer. During the warm months the gobblers, hens, and even the young poults leave the barnyard and don't come back until they want to. Some of them stay away all summer and the only people who may see them for weeks at a time are those who hike or ride through the woods. Their main food all summer has been insects, but the cool weather has eliminated these insects. So now the turkeys have to eat just weed seeds in the woods or else return to the barnyard for grain. Most of them don't seem to care so much for a strict diet of weed seeds, so they now are seen in the barnyard more often, getting meals of grain.

Pheasant Crop Is Good.

Although the season for silo filling is past, the men who worked in cornfields still remember one interesting episode of that job. It was the number of pheasants they saw in the fields, along the fences, and in the weeds along the roadsides. The pheasant crop on the farm this season seems to be one of the best in recent years. A farm worker was telling us this week that when the corn binder was circling around one of the cornfields the men kept their eyes on several pheasants and rabbits which were in the field and didn't seem to want to leave the free supply of corn. As the binder circled the field, cutting row after row of corn, the pheasants and rabbits continued to retreat into the center of the field.

Finally the huge binder got down to the last few rows in the center of the field. The pheasants and the rabbits had only a comparatively small island of tall corn as a refuge. When their cover was so reduced that they could no longer feel safe in the center of so much noise and activity, out they came with a rush, the gaudy cock pheasants cackling their protests against the treatment. The birds flew to the nearest cover.
